Hesitancy on the part of the board of directors of the village of Antioch to sign a memorandum of understanding with Antioch Community High School (ACHS) is holding up the school's landfill gas-to-energy (LFGTE) project.

While ACHS had hoped the small generation plant with 12 turbines would be operational by no later than April 15, the completion date will now be no sooner than April 30. Costs for extra supervision of the partially constructed plant as well as mobilization costs of the machinery that bores under the road to lay the pipeline is at the expense of the taxpayer.

"This is costing the taxpayer, and the more it's delayed, the more it will cost," said Bill Ahlers, business manager for ACHS, though he wouldn't attach an exact price tag. "In addition to the outright costs, we're losing time in capturing the gas and converting it to energy."

When completed, the plant will heat the school with that created from cooling the plant's 12 turbines, and the electricity will be sold to Commonwealth Edison.

Jim Keim, village engineer, said, "This is a safe operation. Right now the gas is just being burned off."

He added that uses the gas in the most efficient way as the heat generated to create the electricity is used by the school and the electricity itself can be used via Commonwealth Edison.

Trustee Scott Pierce showed apprehension, in part, because the nearest residential property is 47 feet from the structure that houses the turbines and he was concerned there would be noise level problems.

Both incumbent candidates running for trustee of the village of Antioch are standing on their records.

Trustee Larry Hanson, who has held the position for the past 8 years, said, "My campaign is not based on false promises that I cannot keep. We are a developing community and we have to address that. Everything I have done, and every position I have taken has been for the good of Antioch. I am not just a 'yes' person."

Hanson said the facts are that he was worked to reduce dependency on outside consulting and services to save the village over $1 million in the past two years. He said he is well informed and believes in preserving Antioch's heritage and has supported both youth and senior programs. "We're in trying times," he said. "We have to make sure that our laws and zoning are in line with what we (Antioch as a community) want."

He said his integrity and professionalism have been among his strengths.

Trustee Barbara Porch also stands on her record and cites her strengths as listening to the public and speaking up when she has questions and concerns.

"I'm campaigning with a three-point agenda," she said. "I want to ensure the village follows legal processes, and that these processes aren't circumvented for convenience. Secondly, residents need to be able to speak freely and be heard, and the board should take time to consider what has been said. Thirdly, when a developer comes to Antioch, Antioch should be able to negotiate until Antioch feels like the winner. I don't think we should just take what's being offered, but choose what we want."

Porch said she felt the mayor circumvented the process when

Police Chief Chuck Fagan was appointed. "Some trustees found out in the newspaper that he had been appointed," she said. "The mayor went to swear him in, and then went for board approval. If we can't follow legal procedure, we're not respecting our government."

To the second prong of her campaign, Porch said it troubles her when citizens speak and then the board immediately takes action. "I think it's insulting not to consider what the residents have to say," she said. "Sometimes the speakers are emotional and other times they are just presenting the facts. Either way, I don't think it's unreasonable to ask that we discuss what has been said."

Both Porch and Hanson have been active with the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, have been business people in the community for a number of years and have been lifelong residents of the community.

Osmond lends support to troops with drop-off center

By JULIE MURPHY

Working with the American Red Cross and the United Service Organization, Representative JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch) has made her district office a drop off location for area residents wishing to send either goods or letters to service men and women overseas.

The decision was made after the Department of Defense banned the practice of "any service member" deliveries. According to Osmond, this had been a key component of citizen and USO support efforts in the past.

"With talk of war so prevalent, I feel we need to support our young men and women who may be put in harms way," said Osmond. "I am excited to use my office for accepting donations for our troops, because many of them will not receive regular letters or packages from home. This is the right thing to do."

Linda Pedersen, legislative aid, said her understanding was that the Department of Defense had banned the practice because of the threat of terrorist action. She added that all letters and packages must have a specific name and address. For that reason, Osmond's district office will accept names of those in service and where they are stationed in addition to goods and letters.

"We're putting boxes together in this office and shipping them out from here," said Pedersen. "We don't want to be handing out names of our service men and women for protection purposes as well."

Local artist's successful show helps out Redfield

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Local artist Dennis Downes's successful show at the Redfield Center at the Grove in Glenview will help upkeep the center's preservation. With the first evening of the three-day show under his belt, Downes said, "This show has already raised more money than the entire show last year."

For the third year, Downes has held a solo show at the center that is now a national historic landmark. Having grown up in the area and having lived on the property for a short while prior to preservation efforts, the preservation of the center and 123 wooded acres on which it sits is important to him.

Grove Redfield Estate director Carol Di Lorenzo said, "The show was highly successful with several sales of original paintings as well as many prints. Mr. Downes has generously donated a portion of the proceeds of his sales back to the Grove for its preservation."

Downes, who regularly holds shows that have a fundraising, philanthropic bend, said he's happy to be able to do something positive in the area. He added, "I couldn't do that without people taking an interest in my work. I would like to thank all of the Lake County residents who took the time to attend the show."

More than 300 people attended the show, buying four original paintings and 16 prints. With prices ranging from $3-5,000 for originals and $2-400 for prints, the show raised a considerable amount of money for the center.

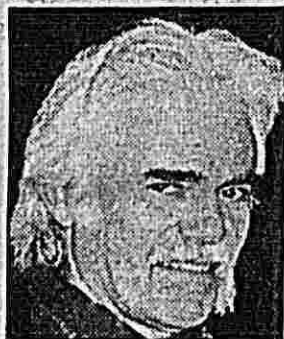

Additionally, Downes donated one original to be raffled off for $20 per ticket.

"I'm glad I wasn't the one who pulled the winning raffle ticket," said Downes, who noted that the winner is a collector of his work and has won the raffle two years in a row.

Downes's next Illinois show will be July 12-13 in Northbrook, a juried show in which he took first place last year.

Those unable to attend this show, can view Downes's work locally at the Copper Frog Gallery in Long Grove, Deerpath Gallery in Lake Forest, Country Elegance Gallery in Wilmet, Wis., TNT's (main dining room) in Antioch and at the Antioch Fine Arts Foundation Gallery. Additionally, examples of his work can be seen on his web site www.downesstudio.com.

ACHS to discuss attendance issues

A public forum will be held on Tuesday, March 25 at 7 p.m. in the commons of Antioch Community High School to share the proposed attendance areas for District 117.

Supt. Dennis Hockney said that construction of the second high school is on schedule and that it should be completed in spring 2004. When the second high school opens in (fall) 2004, it will house only grades nine and 10. In the fall of 2005, grade 11 will be added. Grade 12 will be added the following fall, and the first class will graduate in spring 2007.

"I have received a number of questions about the second high school. The most common of which are: what grades will be included, who will attend and what is the name of the school," said Hockney.

Hockney said the board of education has worked on alternate plans for attendance areas based on population distribution, but this forum will be used to receive public comment. The board will make a final decision at its April 17 meeting.

He added that in May the board will ask community members to suggest a name, mascot and colors for consideration along with an explanation of how the three go together.

"The board of education used a common sense approach in developing the proposed attendance areas and looks forward to receiving feedback from the public," said Hockney.

No Bill and Ted, but hunt will be an egg-cellent adventure anyway

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

An "eggcellent" adventure will be awaiting children after the Antioch Easter parade as youngsters hunt for the egg with the big prize.

The Antioch parks and recreation department will have its 12th annual "Eggcellent Easter Adventure" on April 12 at 11 a.m. at Williams Park immediately following the parade that begins at 10:30 a.m. Registration is going on now through April 11 at the parks office located at 806 Holbek Drive.

The event is co-sponsored with the special events department and the Antioch Senior Center. According to parks director Laurie Stahl, the Easter egg hunt will be done in four groups based on age from one to 10 years old, and beginning with the youngest.

"We will be giving out two Easter baskets per age group," said Stahl. "After the kids collect their 10 eggs, they will look inside to see if there is a coupon for one of the baskets." Stahl added that the eggs are filled with candy and other treats besides the possibility of getting one of the two coupons.

After the egg hunt, the Easter Bunny will be at the Antioch Senior Center from noon-1 p.m. Parents are encouraged to bring cameras and take pictures.

The event will take place rain or shine. Pre-registration is required. Children not registered by April 11 will not be able to participate. The cost is $2 per child for residents (with 60002 zip codes) and $4 for non-residents.

For more information, call Stahl at 847-395-2160

Local shop offers Easter bunny fun

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

It's more fun to have the Easter bunny deliver baskets in person. With that in mind, Tasty Treats and Gifts is offering up its bunny to make these deliveries for the second year running.

"We started this last year," said owner Pat Blumenthal. "I think it ended up being as much fun for us as for the children who received baskets."

The shop regularly creates gift baskets of its specialized popcorn, candy and gifts, but puts operation in high gear for this springtime holiday. Baskets can be customized to suit individual needs or prearranged baskets can be purchased.

"Some people want a basket with less candy, and others want a basket with almost all candy and treats," said Blumenthal. "We can fix things up so the basket will exactly fit what the customer wants."

Blumenthal added that the store could create one big basket with items for several children, or smaller individual baskets. The baskets are dressed up with ribbons, and there is a variety of non-edible gifts that can be added as desired.

The store is already accepting appointments for specific delivery times, but this does not obligate one to arrange the desired basket now. Deliveries will be made Friday-Sunday, April 18-20. The delivery area extends into Wisconsin for areas like Trevor and Twin Lakes and as far south as Fox Lake, Lake Villa and Ingleside. Additionally, deliveries can be made west to Spring Grove and Richmond.

"Some people like to have their children's baskets delivered right before church on Sunday, and others would rather have a Friday or Saturday delivery, and this is fine," said Blumenthal. "We'll do our best to accommodate what people need."

If necessary, Blumenthal is prepared to hire a second bunny to make deliveries.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PROBLEMS SOLVED FOR COUPLE

Before-Builder stalling

We moved into our new home in the Arbors of Windmill Creek the last week of September 2002. We love the layout of our new home. We also love the size of the subdivision and its convenient location to town.

However, we encountered some difficulties in the building and moving in process that we felt/feel could have been avoided. We were wondering if anyone else encountered different or similar difficulties.

We did get two of the three issues resolved, and yes, we are very happy about that. However, the time frame in which they were resolved and also the manner in how they were resolved is still very upsetting to us. We are presently trying to get the third issue taken care of, however, it looks as if another brick wall is being placed before us by Ryland Builders.

We feel while Ryland professes to work toward total customer satisfaction and also one of their mission statements is to make our new home building process with them an enjoyable one—they do not really work toward either of these things. Instead we feel, if you have a legitimate problem, they use stall tactics in an effort to tire out the customer, maybe with the intent that a person or persons will give up on the matter, and Ryland won't have to get it resolved.

We did not give up. We got two of our issues resolved. However, we are not happy about what we had to go through in order to get this accomplished.

After-Mayor thanked

We have had a few difficulties revolving around the building of our home in the Arbors of Windmill Creek in Antioch. The homes are built by Ryland Builders.

We wrote to Mayor Taso Maravelas concerning the most recent issue, and we want everyone to know that our letter did not fall on deaf, uncaring ears. Taso went to bat for us with the builder in order to get the issue resolved, and we have thanked him privately. However, because only negatives about our officials sometimes are seen by the public, we wanted to openly thank Taso through this letter to the editor, in order that a positive of our elected official is also seen by the public.

Taso, thank you, thank you, thank you, thank you. We were told that you truly care about the citizens of Antioch, now we know that to be a fact.

Mentor children

In reading the Feb. 27 issue of the Antioch News I was struck by two articles dealing with "cuts" of programs in local school districts, District 33, Emmons School, District 34, Antioch Schools and District 36, Grass Lake School.

Since I happen to have a close friend teaching in one of these districts, I realize the "cuts" could have a devastating effect on the teachers as well as the students. More and more administrative work is being given to teachers today with less time for "real" teaching.

These "cuts" seems to represent threats to our citizens in a tug-of-war mind-set, as if it is the schools versus the community; and teachers are placed in the middle, and required to go out door-to-door to solicit YES votes from the citizens/homeowners.

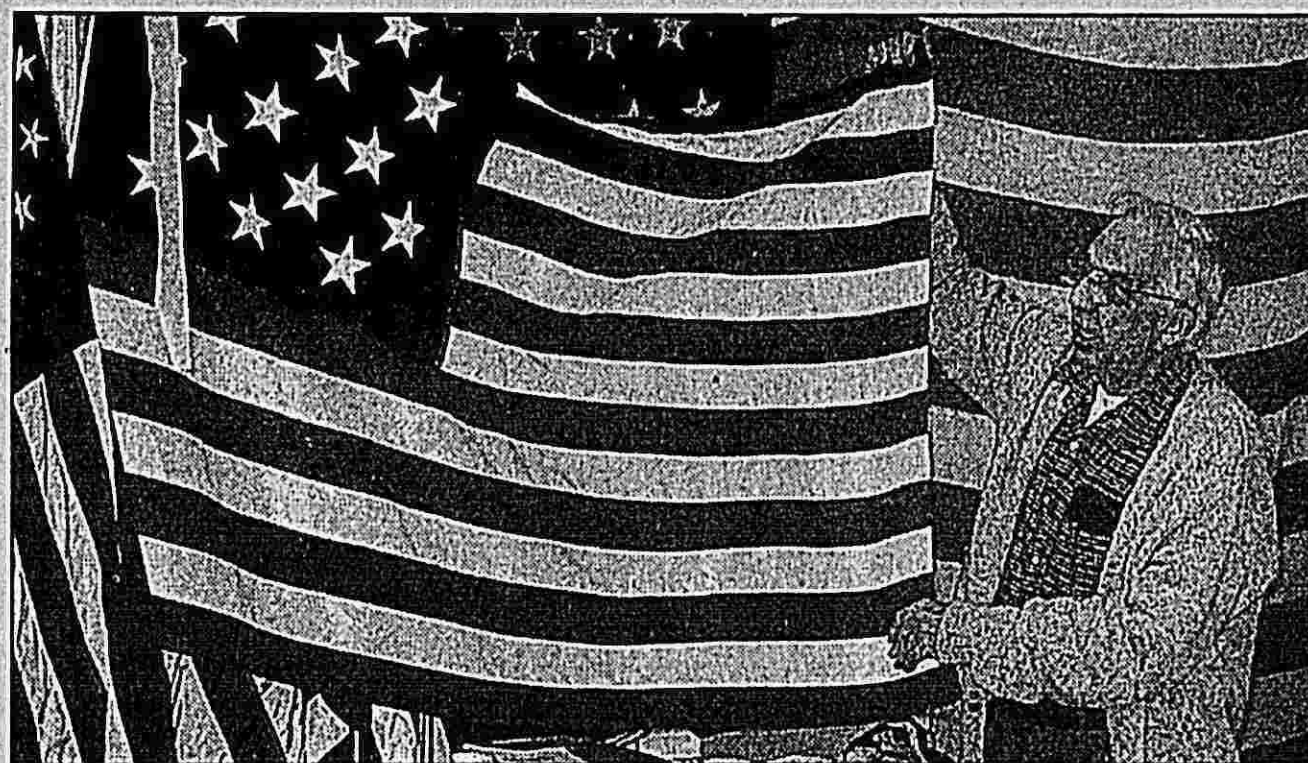

Perhaps we need to examine our ideas, or philosophies of education from a more prayerful and spiritual perspective. This is in contrast to the steady "drum beat" that more and more MONEY needs to be poured into the system.

We should all take more time to mentor the children in our own experience. We are great-grandparents with a very close relationship to a 5-year-old great-grandson, and we have always approached this child as a gift from the Creator who is to be "nourished." We do this by directing his activities and attention to meaningful ideas whenever we are with him. For instance, read him simple Bible stories or be sure he is getting the moral message of goodness and obedience.

Let us heed this spiritual advice and devote our thoughts and prayers to our schools and our children, but let us also implement those prayers with actions to love and support teachers, and mentor children whenever and wherever possible. This is a precious heritage.

A family thing

There are so many activities that the entire family can enjoy.

For the Keller family, it happens to be karate.

"We're all involved, and we are glad we have something we can all enjoy together," said David Keller, a seven-year student at Antioch Shotokan Karate. "We weren't sure if we wanted to teach the kids how to kick and punch. But after seeing how good Sensei Anna was with the kids, this has been a great thing for us."

Keller's family consists of Alex, 3, Jordan, 5, Ian, 8, and wife Carol. Alex is a white belt, Jordan blue, and Ian purple. David is currently a Black Belt while Carol's involvement with ASK is with cardio-kickboxing, which is offered three days a week.

"Everyone in the family has learned quite a bit about discipline and respect," continued David Keller.

It's that discipline and respect, plus the family involvement, that earned them Family of the Year at the Annual ASK Awards Banquet held at Maravela's in Fox Lake.

Students, family and friends all gathered for an afternoon of fine dining, awards, and another powerful performance by the Tsukasa Daiko, a Japanese drum group based out of Chicago. Demonstrations were also given in Empi (advanced) Kata by Graham Connors, Sai (weapons) Kata by Kelly and Sam Emanuelson, and Kanku Sho, or advanced kata, by Scott Curtis. Graham and Scott also put on a free sparring clinic, which on the scorecards, looked to be a draw. In addition, ASK student and current State champion Sandy Hanson gave another flawless demonstration in Kobudo, which is kata using weapons.

As for the awards, Spirit Awards went to Patty Jones and Sage Keyes. The Students of the Year went to Krystal Mason, while Colin Flanigan and Anthony Cappello won Most Improved Students. Black Belt Excellence, given to the students who demonstrate a positive attitude while rising to various challenges, were awarded to David Keller, Robin Jaranson, Lewis Martin and Scott Curtis.

All students received medals for their time and effort over the past year.

Sensei Connors, the chief owner and head instructor for ASK, had nothing but high praise for her students for the hard work and dedication they demonstrated over the past year.

"We opened the school almost nine years ago, with 53 students," she said. "Now we have over 200. The success of the school is because of all of the students, who work hard to become stronger in mind, body and spirit."

Special note: Congratulations to all of the area cheerleading squads who qualified for last weekend's State finals in Springfield. Grant Community High School was the top area finisher, taking second in the Co-ed Varsity division. On the Junior Varsity level, the Grayslake High freshman were 11th, followed by the Warren sophomores 12th.

In the Medium Varsity division, Libertyville finished 12th and Mundelein 13th. Grayslake also took 13th in the Large Varsity division.

Earning Sportsmanship Awards included Grayslake and Mundelein High Schools.

Youth grapplers strut their stuff at sectionals

By JOE PRUSKI
Lakeland Correspondent

Over 100 of the area's finest grade school wrestlers were on hand for the Illinois Elementary School Association (IESA) sectional at Antioch Upper Grade School last weekend. On the line—tickets to the State tournament.

Mundelein's Carl Sandburg Middle School took first in the event with Viking Junior High in Gurnee was right behind in second. Hawthorne Junior High in Vernon Hills finished in third place, while the host school, Antioch Upper Grade School finished in fourth place.

"I thought we did great finishing in second," said Viking coach Jerry Wyman. "We have a very young team, and all the kids on the team have performed great this year."

According to Wyman, in his eighth year of coaching, this year ranks right near the top.

"Two years ago we won the sectional and qualified nine for the state meet, but this year runs a very close second," he said.

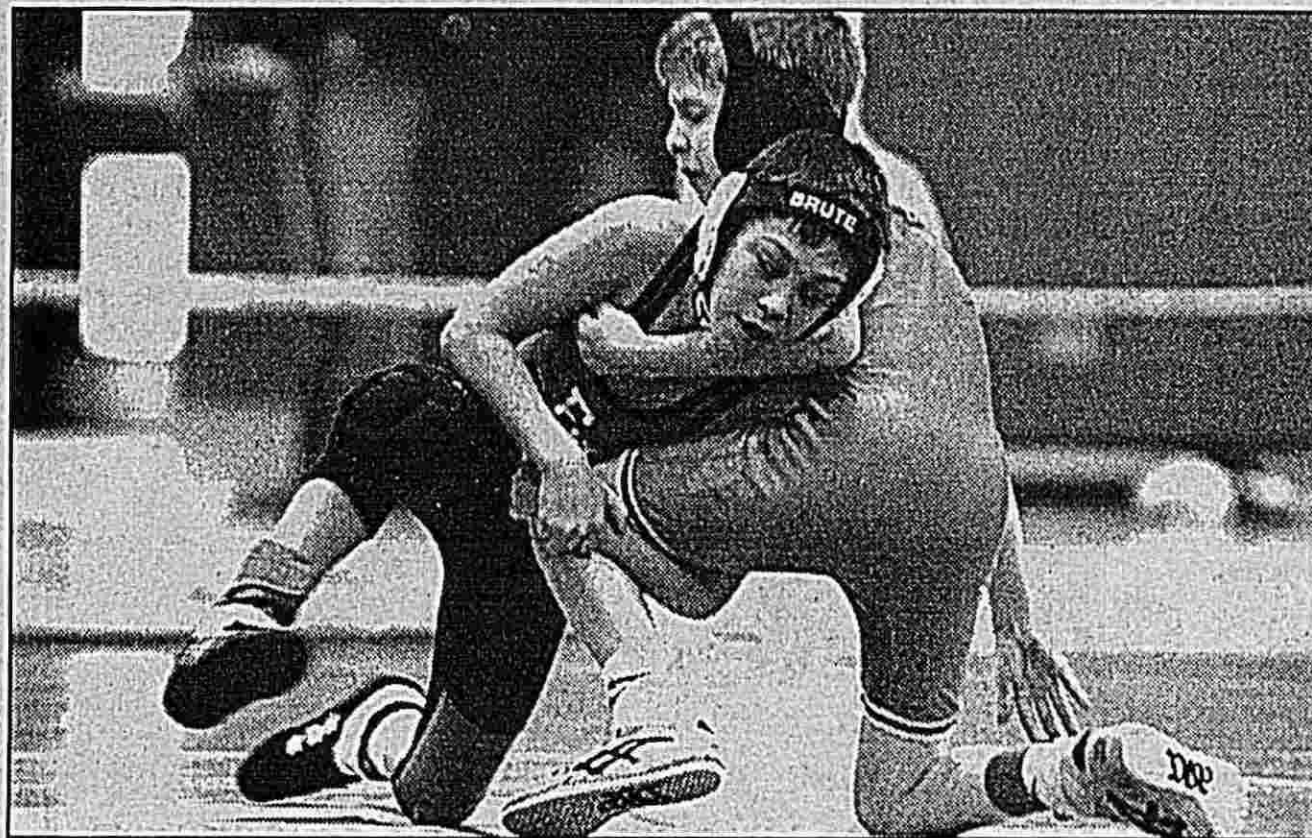

Another area team who finished well was Antioch Upper Grade, who qualified seven wrestlers individually for State.

"I thought we did very well, we had a chance to qualify nine, and we got seven," said Antioch coach Chris Godsey. "Overall I think we had a good showing."

After a sectional appearance last year with a club team, first-year Grayslake Middle School wrestler Justin Hay will also make a showing at the state meet.

"It feels great. This will be my first time going and it just feels great," said Hay.

Hay, who has wrestled for six years overall, is looking to have a positive experience his first time at the finals.

"I just want to have fun, I don't really care if I don't place," he said. "I want to have a good time, but it would definitely be nice to place though."

Grayslake Middle School had five wrestlers qualify for state.

Peter J. Palombi School in Lake Villa had two wrestlers qualify.

"I thought the kids did a great job, we had two wrestlers qualify for state which is the same we had last year," said Palombi Assistant Principle Patrick Flynn. "We have to give a lot of credit to Head Coach Aaron Moyer as well, he did a great job in his first year."

Wauconda Middle School, Stanton School (Fox Lake), and Magee Middle School (Round Lake) also had wrestlers qualify out of the Antioch sectional.

Godsey, who also served as the sectional coordinator, estimated attendance at the event to be near 1000.

The State finals will take place at the newly-built Convocation Center at Northern Illinois University on March 14-15.

CLC baseball still perfect after Metrodome trip

By ROB BACKUS
Lakeland Correspondent

Going into the season, CLC baseball coach, Gene Hanson, said he didn't expect his freshman-laden team to start the season off well.

However, after the team's first-ever 4-0 record on its annual trip to the Metrodome in Minneapolis perhaps Hanson will rethink that statement.

"The adrenaline usually flows in the first few games, but things will level out," Hanson said. "I'm still a little worried about our hitting. But our pitching and our defense will keep us in games all year."

On the first day of the trip, the Lancers swept a double-header against Iowa Lakes.

CLC won the first game 11-5 and Russ Schaibly picked up the win on the mound, allowing six hits and three runs (one earned) in four innings while striking out eight batters.

Schaibly also helped his own cause at the plate with two RBI sacrifice flies and an RBI triple.

Other offensive leaders for CLC were: Alex Frank (2-for-4, two RBI, one run scored); Shawn Schuler (2-for-4, four RBI, two runs) and Aaron Bardy (3-for-4).

In game two, Chris Malec threw four shutout innings while striking out 10 as CLC won 7-0.

The highlight of the game came in the first inning when Frank hit a 420-foot, three-run blast over the baggie in right field.

Awards Night March 24

Antioch Community High School has announced that it will honor its winter sports athletes the evening of Mon., March 24.

The night will begin at approximately 7 p.m. in the school auditorium. Refreshments will be served. Please call Antioch Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder at 847-395-1421, ext. 7630 for further questions.

John Griffin also chipped in with three hits and an RBI.

On the second day of the trip the Lancers swept a double-header against Harper College.

In game three CLC was up 4-1 in the fifth inning but made a few costly errors and that opened up the floodgates as Harper took a 5-4 lead.

With the Lancers down 6-5 in the bottom of the seventh, Malec led off the inning with a pinch-hit triple and later scored the tying run and a fielder's choice from Schuler.

With the game tied at six in the bottom of the eighth inning, Griffin led off with a walk, was sacrificed by Chris Jackson and scored on a fielder's choice by Frank as CLC won 7-6.

Tim Baum (2-for-3, two RBI, two runs) led the Lancers while Danny Savage went 2-for-4 with a run scored.

In the final game, four different Lancer pitchers (Dave Behm, Danny Leicht, Matt Sadowski and Ryne Sanchez) combined for a no-hitter as CLC won 2-0.

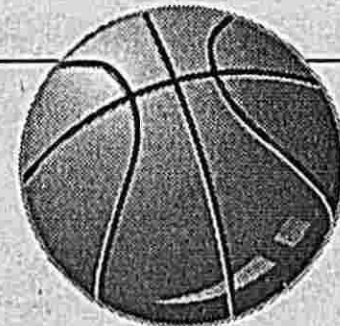

The tournament leaders for CLC were: Baum (5-for-11, seven runs); Schuler (4-for-12, seven RBI) and Frank (3-for-12, one home run, six RBI).

"I didn't know what to expect but I'm very pleased," Hanson said. "The pitchers did exceptionally well; we hit much better than expected, and we only made five errors in four games."

The Lancers will now prepare for their annual Spring Break trip to Fort Pierce, Fla., from March 26 to April 1.

Another area team who finished well was Antioch Upper Grade, who qualified seven wrestlers individually for State.

"I thought we did very well, we had a chance to qualify nine, and we got seven," said Antioch coach Chris Godsey. "Overall I think we had a good showing."

After a sectional appearance last year with a club team, first-year Grayslake Middle School wrestler Justin Hay will also make a showing at the state meet.

"It feels great. This will be my first time going and it just feels great," said Hay.

Hay, who has wrestled for six years overall, is looking to have a positive experience his first time at the finals.

"I just want to have fun, I don't really care if I don't place," he said. "I want to have a good time, but it would definitely be nice to place though."

Grayslake Middle School had five wrestlers qualify for state.

Peter J. Palombi School in Lake Villa had two wrestlers qualify.

"I thought the kids did a great job, we had two wrestlers qualify for state which is the same we had last year," said Palombi Assistant Principle Patrick Flynn. "We have to give a lot of credit to Head Coach Aaron Moyer as well, he did a great job in his first year."

Wauconda Middle School, Stanton School (Fox Lake), and Magee Middle School (Round Lake) also had wrestlers qualify out of the Antioch sectional.

Godsey, who also served as the sectional coordinator, estimated attendance at the event to be near 1000.

The State finals will take place at the newly-built Convocation Center at Northern Illinois University on March 14-15.

CLC baseball still perfect after Metrodome trip

By ROB BACKUS
Lakeland Correspondent

Going into the season, CLC baseball coach, Gene Hanson, said he didn't expect his freshman-laden team to start the season off well.

However, after the team's first-ever 4-0 record on its annual trip to the Metrodome in Minneapolis perhaps Hanson will rethink that statement.

"The adrenaline usually flows in the first few games, but things will level out," Hanson said. "I'm still a little worried about our hitting. But our pitching and our defense will keep us in games all year."

On the first day of the trip, the Lancers swept a double-header against Iowa Lakes.

CLC won the first game 11-5 and Russ Schaibly picked up the win on the mound, allowing six hits and three runs (one earned) in four innings while striking out eight batters.

Schaibly also helped his own cause at the plate with two RBI sacrifice flies and an RBI triple.

Other offensive leaders for CLC were: Alex Frank (2-for-4, two RBI, one run scored); Shawn Schuler (2-for-4, four RBI, two runs) and Aaron Bardy (3-for-4).

In game two, Chris Malec threw four shutout innings while striking out 10 as CLC won 7-0.

Awards Night March 24

Antioch Community High School has announced that it will honor its winter sports athletes the evening of Mon., March 24.

The night will begin at approximately 7 p.m. in the school auditorium. Refreshments will be served. Please call Antioch Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder at 847-395-1421, ext. 7630 for further questions.

John Griffin also chipped in with three hits and an RBI.

On the second day of the trip the Lancers swept a double-header against Harper College.

In game three CLC was up 4-1 in the fifth inning but made a few costly errors and that opened up the floodgates as Harper took a 5-4 lead.

With the Lancers down 6-5 in the bottom of the seventh, Malec led off the inning with a pinch-hit triple and later scored the tying run and a fielder's choice from Schuler.

With the game tied at six in the bottom of the eighth inning, Griffin led off with a walk, was sacrificed by Chris Jackson and scored on a fielder's choice by Frank as CLC won 7-6.

Tim Baum (2-for-3, two RBI, two runs) led the Lancers while Danny Savage went 2-for-4 with a run scored.

In the final game, four different Lancer pitchers (Dave Behm, Danny Leicht, Matt Sadowski and Ryne Sanchez) combined for a no-hitter as CLC won 2-0.

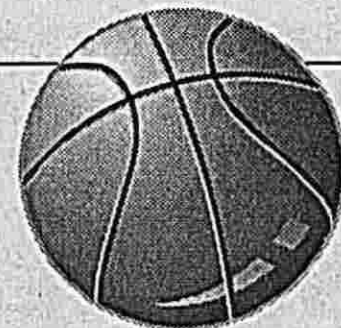

The tournament leaders for CLC were: Baum (5-for-11, seven runs); Schuler (4-for-12, seven RBI) and Frank (3-for-12, one home run, six RBI).

"I didn't know what to expect but I'm very pleased," Hanson said. "The pitchers did exceptionally well; we hit much better than expected, and we only made five errors in four games."

The Lancers will now prepare for their annual Spring Break trip to Fort Pierce, Fla., from March 26 to April 1.

Komets skate to 3rd

The Kenosha Komets under-12 girl's ice hockey team capped off a memorable season by taking third place in the Wisconsin Amateur Hockey Association state championship playoff games in Superior, Wisc.

Eight teams from throughout Wisconsin vied for the top spot in a single-game elimination format. In opening round action, the Komets shut out Menomonie 4-0. Katie Eisenhauer was stellar in goal in earning the shut out.

As for the offensive support, there was plenty. Laurie Simonds got things rolling with her first period goal, scored the first goal in the first period. Tanner Crisp then added to the lead with her unassisted tally in the second stanza. Then, in the final period, Amanda Houslander, a seventh-grader at Antioch Upper Grade School, assisted Courtney Mercier to put the game out of reach at 3-0. Later in the final period, Crisp added her second goal of the game to ice the victory.

In second round play, the Komets lost a 2-1 overtime heartbreaker to the Wisconsin Wild. With the game tied 1-1, the Wild scored the game-winner with only 4 seconds left in the overtime period. As for the Komets, the lone goal was when Simonds assisted Houslander in the opening period. Even in the loss, the Komet defense was up to the challenge with Jeanna Dudley, a sixth-grader at AUGS, Kelly Eisenhauer, Jill Matoska and April Gehri.

The loss put the Komets in the third-place contest against the Fond du Lac Thunder, which came down to another overtime affair as both teams' outstanding defense saw no goals scored in regulation. However, at the mid-way point of the extra session, Simonds took a beautiful feed from Houslander for the game-winner. Eisenhauer was again tenacious in goal in earning her second shut out of the tournament.

Way to go Komets on bouncing back to finish third!

Boy killed in crash

Prairie Grove—A 16-year-old Wauconda boy was killed in a two-vehicle accident at Route 176 at Buhl Road on March 9. The teen was identified as Gamael Cortes-Armas. The accident took place at 8:30 a.m. in Prairie Grove, near Crystal Lake and west of Island Lake.

Round Lake Park-Hainesville Police Commander Dan Burch has been activated to serve in the US Marine Reserves. Burch is part of the Marine Air Control Group 48 Marine Wing Commander Squadron 48, according to Round Lake Park-Hainesville Police Chief Bruce Johnson, who is also a Marine Reserve and could be called up at anytime.

Officials from Lake Villa Township and the villages of Lake Villa and Lindenhurst have been invited, but the public has been barred from the meeting. The study has yet to be released to the public.

Board has first-ever bilingual meeting

By JEFF ZACHARY
Staff Reporter

Future Round Lake school board meetings could be bilingual if the March Committee of the Whole meeting is any indication, as many Hispanics turned out to give their thoughts and hear other's opinions on a proposed regulated dress code by the Parent Teacher Advisory Committee.

Doing the translations in Spanish were school board member Cecelia Real and District 116 bilingual coordinator Sandra Prez.

Murphy School PTO President Denise Carey was one of three people who spoke out against the proposed regulated dress code.

It is believed to be the first-ever bilingual meeting of its kind in the county, if not the state.

The bilingual meetings were prompted because of a growing amount of Spanish-speaking residents attending board meetings.

Cell phone use not a factor in accident

Mundelein—Despite earlier reports, the Lake County Sheriff's office said no evidence suggested a 33-year old Mundelein man was using his cell phone prior to a two-vehicle accident that took his life and seriously injured a Crystal Lake woman.

Francisco Campos Jr. was traveling eastbound on Route 60, approaching Fish Lake Road near Wauconda, when his car crossed the centerline and struck an oncoming truck driven by Christine Smutey.

"There was a cell phone in the car at the time of the accident," investigating officer Deputy John Vinson said. "It's as simple as that. There was never any evidence or any suggestion that Mr. Campos was on the phone or that it played a role in the cause of the accident."

Charges pressed against Dist. 79

Fremont Twp.—In addition to filing charges against the Bright Futures Committee for election law violations, Libertyville business owner Jack Martin continued the assault saying that Fremont School District 79 has overspent and wasted tax payer money.

Martin said statements made by the school district that they are running out of money and tax caps are hurting them are untrue and said taxes have increased in the area 91 percent over the past seven years.

Village holding its breath on gas issue

Antioch—Hesitancy on the part of the board of directors of the Village of Antioch to sign a memorandum with Antioch Community High School is holding up the school's landfill gas-to-energy project.

While ACHS had hoped the a small generation plant with 12 turbines would be operational by no later than April 15, the completion date will now be no sooner than April 30. Costs for extra supervision of the partially constructed plant as well as mobilization costs of the machinery that bores under the road to lay the pipeline is at the expense of the taxpayer.

Link calls for higher ATM security

By ELIZABETH GUARD
Staff Reporter

An incident in which a Gurnee woman was kidnapped prompted the proposal of a bill that would aim to increase ATM security.

Stacie Carbone was abducted in Gurnee in 2001 and was forced to make numerous withdrawals from area ATMs during a four-hour period.

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) took notice of the incident and has advanced Senate bill 562 encouraging ATM operators to provide increased security provisions for customers.

Link's proposal would ask that ATM operators install a device or a software component in their ATM network. The device would allow ATM users to enter their ATM personal identification number in reverse, which would send an electronic signal to local law enforcement.

ment. ATMs could also be equipped with an emergency call button.

"It's like being able to make a 911 call from an ATM without anyone knowing what you've done," Link said in a statement. "The important aspect about this proposal is that we find some way of not only stopping an ATM crime as it occurs, but sending a message to those who would commit these crimes that technology is going to make their illegal plans much harder to accomplish."

Gurnee Police Chief Bob Jones, who investigated Carbone's case, said he is in full support of the bill and believes that ATM crimes could be reduced if such a device were put in place.

With more than 12,000 ATM crimes reported in the United States annually, Jones said it is obvious that there is a danger posed when customers use ATMs.

"It's an extremely worthwhile bill, and I think it will afford some protection for people," Jones said.

The bill has been heard before the Senate Financial Institutions Committee and was unanimously supported. The bill will now advance to the full Senate for a vote. Jones said he thinks the bill has a good chance of passing because of the support it has garnered. He said along with Link, State Sen. Adeline Geo Karis (R-Zion) has vocally supported the bill.

Golf course plan wins endorsement

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Hawthorn Woods Plan Commission members concluded their portion of the Hawthorn Woods Country Club plan consideration by voting to approve it and send the plan to the village board.

The plan will bring an 18-hole golf course and 592 dwelling units on 674 acres to be annexed to the village. It is located in the area of Schwerman Road, Gilmer Road and Fairfield Road.

Toll Brothers, the developer, will be contributing a package of $20 million in improvements for area governments. "These could start to kick in by May. The property will be zoned R-1 residential and architectural overlay in Hawthorn Woods."

"Life is about give-and-take and compromises. The developer is contributing a lot in the area of infrastructure and revenue that will benefit the village," said Keith Hunt, village president.

There were some technical changes to the findings of fact, the official plan commission document, at the Monday meeting. Some members desired clarification about the definition of just who, among adjacent property owners, would be able to "tap into" the sewer and water system, at their expense. It was defined that only those who received a certified letter or were required to by law would be able to tap into the system at their own expense.

The village board will consider the annexation again at its March 17 meeting.

"It depends on how far the agreement has come along. We have asked the developer to make hundreds of changes," Hunt said.

The findings-of-fact will include a descent view from member Bill Way. Way voted against the approval.

"I believe that the intent of that was for the single-family residents adjoining, bearing in mind that there is some open mind adjoining. We cannot be certain of its use in the future. I do not believe that it was our intent to make available sewer and water to other uses. We should clarify it to single-family residents only," Way said. Village Attorney Tom Good agreed.

The applicant is donating $11.8 million in donations to the village and other taxing jurisdictions for roadway improvements. Government bodies that will receive donations include the following: Countryside and Lake Zurich Fire Protection Districts; Mundelein High School; Fremont

PADS can always use your help

Second of 2 parts

By MARTIN SLOAN
Special to Lakeland Newspapers

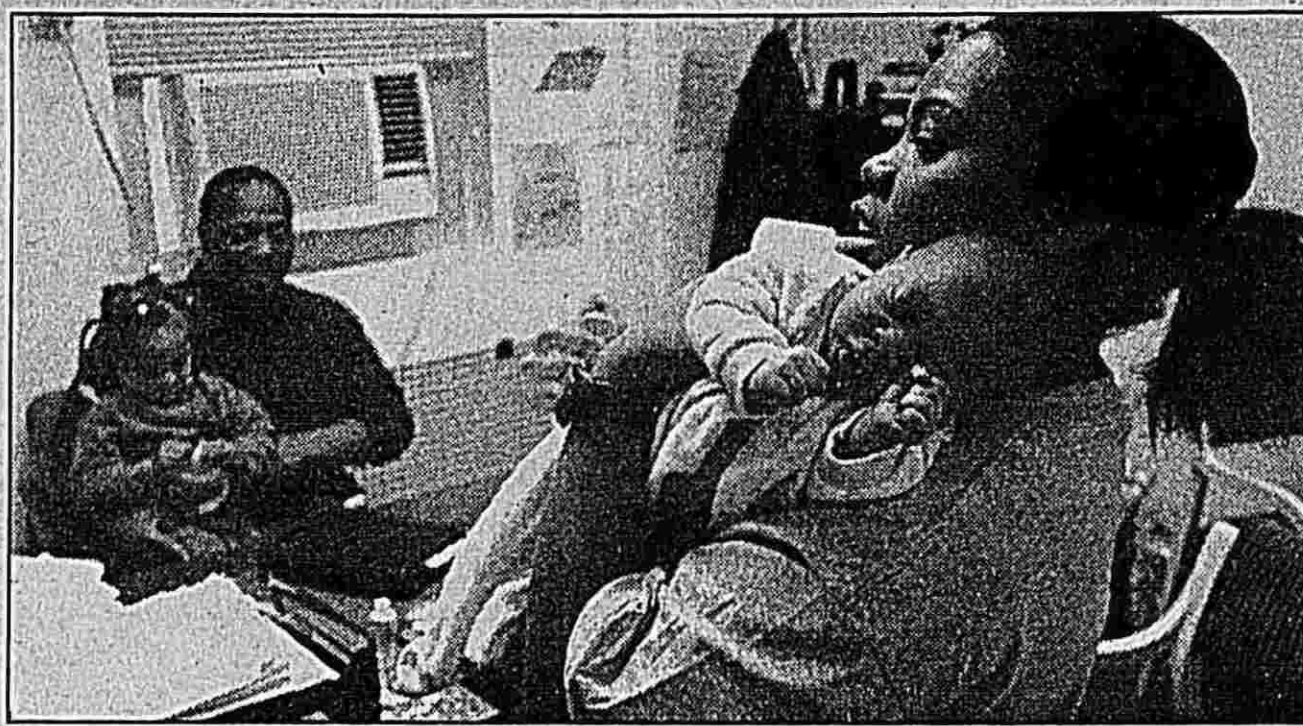

The largest component of PADS budget, at 22 percent, comes from HUD, and is administered through the Lake County Continuum of Care. Run by the Lake County Department of Planning, Building, and Development, the Continuum applies for and receives HUD funding each year toward the goal of ending chronic homelessness in Lake County within 10 years. There are many organizations within Lake County that received a portion of the roughly $1.5 million grant last year, including A Safe Place, Lake County Haven, and Emmaus House, although funds from this grant for some of the organizations will be disbursed over two or three years.

The remainder of the budget comes from other private and public contributions. Non-monetary support comes as the result of networking with other agencies such as United Way, whom provide some of the volunteers, and COOL, and Waukegan based food pantry. Of late, as with many other organizations, funding from all sources is stretched, and future federal and state policy may effect how much PADS will receive, and what programs will be able to be offered.

PADS functions

Continuum of Care spokesman Rob Anthony calls PADS an integral part of the Continuum in that it serves as the entry point for many homeless people into the system. "Its function is to provide immediate shelter, food, and hygiene supplies and assess the needs of homeless persons. PADS then develops a service plan for the client and links homeless persons to services that will address the causes of their homelessness and move clients into transitional or permanent housing."

Anthony goes on to say that approximately 40 percent of the homeless within Lake County as a whole are families, and that same percentage are actually employed. "The most common reasons for homelessness are lack of affordable housing, low wage jobs, inadequate public assistance, mental illness, and substance abuse. The creation of permanent supportive housing is essential to eliminate homelessness in Lake County."

He adds that the County also does an excellent job providing transitional housing and supportive services, stating that there is a very large gap in the County's supply of permanent supportive housing for the homeless.

"The gap is due to the high cost of property and housing, the NIMBY (Not In My Back Yard) attitude that makes it very difficult to find a location, and few developers are willing to tackle the complicated political and financial challenges associated with developing permanent housing for the homeless."

Help always needed

In addition to the funding and material donations that PADS receives, they depend heavily on the volunteer support, both directly and indirectly. In fact, PADS uses the services of about 2,500 volunteers in the course of a year.

One overnight shelter may use 20 people to run for one night during the week. Tasks performed by volunteers include setup, food preparation, attending to clients needs, and tear-down. The Wauconda shelter for example currently runs only on Saturday night, and is always hosted at Messiah Lutheran, but several groups of volunteers each will come in on a different Saturday night to perform shelter duties. These groups include volunteers from Messiah itself, Transfiguration Church which is also in Wauconda, and others.

It's all about the people. One homeless volunteer captured it best when she said "I will never be a mother Theresa, but I try in simple ways. I make an effort to get to know the homeless people. You know what I hear over and over that blows my mind? They are always struck by the fact that I ask their name. One guy started to cry and said that no one had bothered to ask his name in years."

Waukegan Park District names patron, volunteers of the year

At a special patron and volunteer recognition reception on Feb. 27, the Waukegan Park District presented three of its most prestigious awards. The City of Waukegan received the coveted Patron of the Year Award for their long association and support of special events and projects of the Waukegan Park District. Mayor Richard Hyde of the City of Waukegan received the award.

The Volunteer of the Year Award was presented to Alain Oller. Mr. Oller is a member of the Rotary Club of Waukegan and has been highly active with such projects as Halloweenfest, the municipal beach cleanup, "Partners in Parks," the Washington Park beautification and enhancement program and the focus group for the design of the Veterans Plaza in Washington Park.

Theodora Anderson received the 2003 Jack Benny Arts and Humanities Award for her out-standing efforts on behalf of the Cultural Arts Division of the Waukegan Park District. Ms. Anderson has been president of the Bowen Park Theatre and Opera Guild since its inception in 2000. She is also active with the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra and Concert Chorus and the Jack Benny Center for the Arts. She has been involved in arts projects with the Waukegan Public Schools and is a past president of the Chicago Shakespeare Association.

The patron and volunteer awards are sponsored by the Waukegan Park District in conjunction with the Illinois Parks and Recreation Association and the Illinois Association of Park Districts. The Patron and Volunteer Recognition Reception is an annual event sponsored by the Waukegan Park District to honor the many people who help support the efforts of the District.

Federal budget includes over $11 mil for county

With the fiscal year 2003 federal budget, which legislators only recently completed, Lake County officials learned the United States government would provide over $11 million for various projects in Lake County. In addition to the county programs that received direct earmarked federal funding, the county's lobbying efforts also played a role in Metra's receipt of approximately $20 million for double-tracking the Wisconsin Central line in Lake County.

Of the $11 million in funds for county projects, approximately $5.36 million came as a result of a direct request by county officials and subsequent lobbying efforts by the county.

County government officials annually seek funds from the federal government and work closely with the county's senators and congressmen to seek federal money for county projects. However, Lake County has seen its annual share of federal funds increase over the past three years since it began contracting for professional representation in Washington, D.C.

"We are extremely grateful for the diligent work and dedication of our federal legislators and the funding they've helped secure for projects in the county," said county board member Carol Spielman (D-22), chair of the county's Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs Committee. "The increase in federal funds coming to Lake County also demonstrates a positive return on our investment in federal lobbying efforts."

County projects funded by the federal budget include Des Plaines River Watershed Flood Prevention Design and Construction, Squaw and Sequoit Creek watershed management plans, Waukegan Harbor dredging, comprehensive planning for six sub watersheds, the development of an intelligent transportation system, Route 45 improvements and expansion of community based health centers.

Lake County officials were made aware of their projects included in the final version of the fiscal year 2003 federal budget while they were in Washington, D.C. visiting with federal legislators to push for more funding in the 2004 federal budget.

County requests for 2004 include funding for a traffic control center, Route 120 improvements and various transportation improvement projects as part of the government's reauthorization of the Transportation Equity Act, flood mitigation assistance, Winchester House improvements, funding for the summer youth employment program and emergency preparedness efforts.

Although the federal fiscal year begins on Oct. 1, legislators did not reach consensus on the budget until late last month. The government had been operating on a series of short-term budget resolutions.

Mayors can end fantasy of Rte. 53

In our letters column this week, Long Grove President Anthony T. Dean says a lot in a short space about a subject that has been bantered about and pounded to a numbing pulp for a long time, the vague promise that construction of the Rte. 53 extension will solve all of Lake County's highway transportation problems.

Long Grove's political leader does an excellent job of putting the Rte. 53 controversy in focus. He's right on target when he describes the moth-eaten Rte. 53 plan a "mirage." Mirage is an apt description for Rte. 53. Roget's Thesaurus provided some delicious synonyms for the tired 53 concept—delusion, will-o'-the-wisp, illusion, dream, castle in the air, hallucination, wild-goose chase, fantasy are among them.

We'd like to expand on Dean's thoughts by saying that it is high time that his fellow mayors and village presidents, most of whom have signed on to "Build 53" support documents, face reality and use the power and authority of their office to bring about "meaningful improvements throughout the county" as called for in the letter.

Collectively, we're convinced that Lake County's municipal leaders could put an end to the inaction and inertia for highway transportation improvement that has been stalled for many years by the panacea of the Rte. 53 extension plan.

With elections going on in every municipality April 1, this is an excellent time for a motoring public fed up with gridlock to demand that our local officials end Rte. 53 posturing and take steps with state and county authorities to get down to the business of making highway improvements. Pleased reread Dean's letter. He says it all about Rte. 53.

The mayors can turn things around. They can do it. The question is do they want to.

COMMENTARY

Democrat filibuster misguided, hypocritical

By Grant D. Noble

Democrat party leaders were standing for an important principle when they said:

• "I have stated over and over again—that I would object to and fight against any filibuster on a judge, whether it is somebody I opposed or supported." Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-VT)-Congressional Record, June 18, 1998 at S6521.

• "A nominee is entitled to a vote" Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA)-Congressional Record, Sept. 16, 1999 at S11014.

Yes, the mere threat of a Republican filibuster against President Clinton's judicial nominees was enough to generate howls of Democratic outrage. But now that it is President Bush's nominations for federal judge, these same Democratic leaders are suddenly in favor of filibustering.

Hypocrisy is the coin of the realm for politicians, especially among Democrats. But after suffering the worst midterm election defeat since 1934 in part because they held up votes on critical issues and nominations, it's hard to understand why the Senate Democrats don't abandon this strategy of constant obstruction. The American people don't like it because they understand the difference between fighting for the rights and opinions of a substantial minority on a substantive issue and naked partisanship.

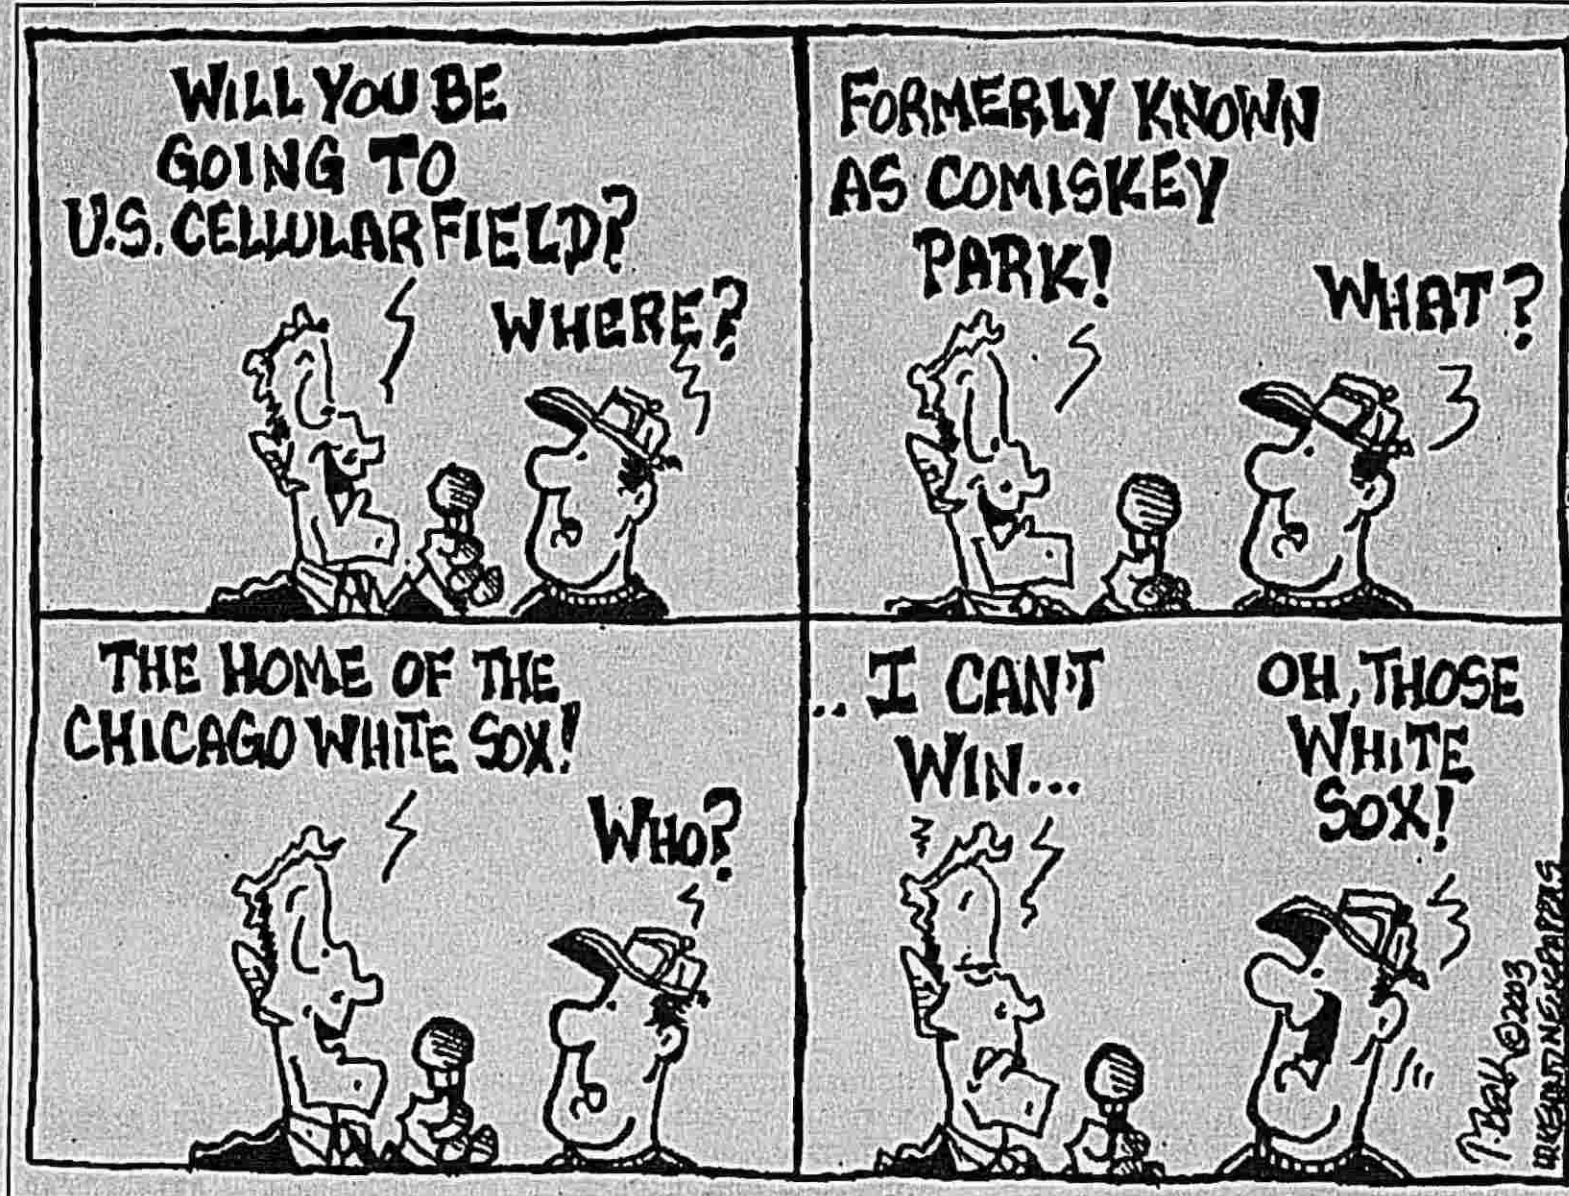

I did not like last year's filibuster mounted against the proposed new oil drilling in Alaska, but I realize this is an issue that affects millions of people and shouldn't be decided without substantial debate and consensus. I believe the average American is with me on this national security issue and eventually my side will prevail as the opponents continue to suffer electoral defeats.

When the Clinton Democrats tried to nationalize health care in 1993, I was glad Senate Republicans filibustered this attempt. The American people had an opportunity to decide in the following election who was right on this issue and we all know what they decided in 1994.

But now, in the midst of a recession, a major war scare and a thousand other problems, the business of U.S. Senate is going to be tied up for weeks. The reason? Because Miguel Estrada may be pro-life and he may become a nominee for the Supreme Court and he may provide a fifth vote to overturn some Supreme Court decisions on abortion. And even if all this happens and the Supreme Court allows the law to go back to the way it was before Roe vs. Wade (each state decides its own abortion laws), does anyone think abortion is going to be restricted in any way in New York, California and many other major states? If this filibuster of the nomination of Miguel Estrada isn't the definition of special interest, narrow-minded, petty partisanship, I don't know what is. Shame on Senator Durbin for being part of this travesty.

Editor's note: Grant Noble writes regularly on public issues. He is a resident of Lake Forest.

VIEWPOINT

Students divided on threat of war

Kids have lots to say about world affairs and the U.S. getting involved in a war with Iraq. All you have to do is ask them what they're thinking.

The knowledge of global politics and depth of conviction of young people about our nation's role is both surprising and amazing. They just need an opportunity to speak out.

A group of sixth graders had the opportunity to voice their opinions in a class project conducted by their teacher Gregory Hemesath about whether or not American should go to war with Iraq. The children, ages 11 and 12, are students at Pleviak Elementary School, Lake Villa. Here's what some of them had to say:

Advocating a "bullet for Saddam's crazy head," Chris Harris, 11, pointed out that "If we take him out, the people following him will be too afraid to launch the missiles and America will be safe." Ty Ohren, 12, said, "Right now I think war is not the answer. So many things could go wrong like Iraq fighting back or Saddam start(ing) to bomb the United States." Ty added a "definite" no to war.

Raveena Cornelious, 11, expressed concern about the possible killing of millions of innocent people. "Some people might feel that we should go to war because what they did to our country...fighting...won't help anything. It will make things worse," stated Nicole Hildinger, 12.

Luke Krostal, 12, thinks military action will make the U.S. "safe and worry free." Luke added, "If we do not fight it will come back to haunt us." Brian Kukula, 11, was critical of the stand taken by France and Russia. "If they would open their eyes, they would see that Saddam Hussein has biochemical weapons....We should just go over to Iraq and get rid of the biochemical weapons."

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Advocating war, Veronica Scaggs, 11, questions the innocence of Iraq's citizens. "Everyone has done something bad. Saddam is waiting for a yes from us because he doesn't care if his people die." Venessa Villarreal admitted that she is scared. She said she and her family will go to her grandmother's house if Chicago is bombed. "The U.S. should keep its big nose out of other country's business. It's their problem, not ours," she insisted. Shaolin Bez, 12, said the controversy isn't worth the life of her sister who is going to Iraq soon.

Cody Wacholder, 11, said "if they didn't bomb the World Trade Center then we would still be normal." War will be an act of revenge, according to Cody. Abby Flores, 13, pointed out that war will invite retaliation. "He can send more of his terrorist men to the U.S." Rachel Abarbanell, 11, sees war as playing into the hands of Saddam Hussein. She said she hopes President Bush changes his mind.

When challenged in school and at home, sixth grade is about the age young people become interested in public issues. Whether they take questions of the day seriously depends on their home and school environment. If there are young people in your home, do you discuss world affairs? The sixth graders at Pleviak School are off to a good start. Hope they keep up their interest and willingness to exchange opinions.

Getting price right

Several sharp-eyed Cub fans called to point out that this column over-shot the mark on bleacher ticket prices at Wrigley Field. More like $30 per instead of the $50 we bemoaned. Our apologies. As a matter of record, major league teams today vary ticket prices depending on demand. The Yankee series in June at Wrigley will fetch top dollar. The scalpers already are looking for $500 for some seats, we're told.

On active duty

Maj. Gen. Wayne Erk, former principal at Laka Zurich High School, is on active duty at an east coast Army post helping deploy troops to mideast hot spots. He is a reservist.

One man's family

Grandparents don't need to check the calendar to know that spring is on the way. Just check the sports schedule. All is getting ready for soccer and John is in baseball try outs. Warm and sunny days can't be far away. Gramp remembers when boys started playing marbles when spring beckoned. When is the last time you saw a youngster shooting marbles?

What's wrong with being pro-teacher?

By Kurt Walters

In response to Jordan Madorsky's piece platforming his skewed views on the teacher's salaries and retirement planning as a issue of public policy, I would like to make a few points. First off, no thinking adult should be surprised about anything concerning the last days of the lamentable Ryan administration. But what connection does allowing people with superior attendance to invest the money already contractually owed them to their retirement funds have to do with parents volunteering additional time and funding to underfunded school programs?

COMMENTARY

Is Mr. Madorsky stating that using the investment of unused sick days from existing salaries outweighs using the shrinking pool of substitute teachers, and increasing payments to the substitutes? Or is he saying that either teachers should get sick me often or not get paid when sick?

Yes, there are obligations to the Teachers Retirement System (TRS). Yes, the TRS is the largest fund in the state for the infusion of state funds, and yes, like all other funds, last year took losses in the equity markets. But Madorsky's spin that because the teachers don't pay Social Security taxes (nor collect it upon retirement) that they are somehow double dipping if they work a part-time job, is ludicrous.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKE LAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Immigration foes target Beaubien

State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington Hills) is caught in a tug-of-war over the question of giving undocumented immigrants access to in-state tuition.

Baubien, representing the 52nd District of southwest Lake County and eastern McHenry County, is among co-sponsors of a bill that would allow illegal aliens to pay in-state rates to attend colleges and universities in Illinois.

The bill is being pushed by the Illinois Coalition for Immigrant and Refugee Rights. Under a 1982 U.S. Supreme Court decision, foreign-born students are entitled to the same high school education as U.S. citizens. There is no federal mandate for an in-state college tuition eligibility.

The Midwest Coalition to Reduce Immigration has targeted Beaubien, charging that the bill is a backdoor method of underwriting Mexico's campaign to skirt U.S. immigration laws. The anti-HB 60 organization bill pointed out that there are four million qualified American students unable to attend college because of prohibitive costs.

Takes quality route

State Rep. Ed Sullivan Jr. (R-Mundelein) is shunning the "publicity pop" stance of freshmen legislators in favor of sponsoring a few pieces of legislation for which he has strong feelings. He said sponsoring a lot of bills makes good press release material, but doesn't count for effective representation.

Private affair

Long-time friends and supporters of U.S. Sen. Peter G. Fitzgerald (R-Ill.) staged a private dinner in his honor to swell his re-election war chest Saturday night, March 15, at Inverness Golf Club. There was a reception at 6 p.m. at $500 each followed by dinner at 7 p.m. for an additional $500 per person. Fitzgerald is running in 2004 for his second term.

Scratching on the door to heaven

Fifteen years ago, maybe 20, I read a newspaper column worth saving and perhaps reprinting here in the Pfarr Corner.

It was about heaven and people and dogs, and written by George Plagenz, a clergyman and nationally syndicated religion columnist, and a very good one.

So I clipped the article and filed it, and thought about it often, but whenever I looked for it couldn't find it. (That's par for the course, and Pfarr for the course, considering my filing system bears a depressing resemblance to the Bermuda Triangle.)

But, lo and behold, the other day it popped up in my e-mail, from one of those people who have nothing else to do but send piles of pithy prose and poetry to us and at least 50 other folks.

So, finally, here it is: "The Other Side," by George Plagenz:

When wondering about heaven, we are like the pet dog of a doctor who was paying a visit to a terminally ill patient.

"Doc," said the patient, "You're a religious person. Tell me, what will heaven be like?"

The doctor paused a moment, and then

THE PFARR CORNER

said, "Ed, do you hear that scratching outside the door? That's my dog. I brought him along with me. He wants to come in. He's never been in here. He has no idea what this room is like. He only knows one thing; he knows I'm in here."

"Ed, I don't know what heaven is like. I know only one thing about it. God is there."

The heck you say

"That is a comforting story," Plagenz wrote later. "But it doesn't give us any clue as to what a day in heaven will be like. We long for more details about daily life in the next world."

"Will we see our loved ones again? Will the family circle be unbroken? The Bible leaves the question unanswered but Jesus spoke of renewing human relationships in the kingdom of heaven. He also suggested, at the Last Supper, that heaven would not be devoid of any of the pleasures we know on Earth, like eating and drinking with our friends. (I will not drink henceforth of the fruit of the vine until I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.)"

Are we wondering how some others have imagined heaven and hell?

Robert Frost: "Hell is a half-filled auditorium."

Aldous Huxley: "Maybe this world is another planet's hell."

Oprah Winfrey: "My idea of heaven is a great big baked potato and someone to share it with."

In the movie "Hannah and Her Sisters," Woody Allen ponders the question once again and concludes that the great thinkers didn't know any more about it than we do.

He mentions Nietzsche's theory of eternal recurrence, that the life we live we're going to live over and over again the exact same way for eternity.

"Great," says Woody. "That means I'll have to sit through the Ice Capades again. It isn't worth it."

Teacher

Teachers salaries are notoriously low, and the drop-out rate high, so the survivors making 34 years are not huge in number.

Teachers salaries are negotiated by district level, and it is necessary to point out that in Illinois there are many more underfunded and poor school districts than well-off? The 10 sick days, unmissed are more valuable to the students, and the schools, in education and substitute pay, than the amortized value to the state. And obviously, the teachers are not only compelled to not miss school, but also, they all don't take the same days or number of days off, no matter how that inconveniences Mr. Madorsky's fiscal model.

As for his comments about the teachers lobby vast public relations machine, their main weapon of choice seems to be those pesky well-meaning parents, spuriously spreading rumors about how deserving the teachers are of raises, and creating a ruckus in labor disputes concerning their children's welfare. Darn those easily-led yet motivated parents. What proof does he show for the "myth" of local control of schools? Has he ever listened to local school boards dumbing down requirements, banning books, and making educationally uninformed, yet political choices? Has he ever seen the PTA deciding to fund a book purchase or event for a local school that the district had no funds for? And yes, administrators were teachers, but that is no argument proving that they support either over-paying or under-paying teachers. Don't most supervisors come from a background within the industry they work in? And have you ever seen a teachers strike where the administrators walk the picket line with the teachers? And his comment about teachers indoctrinating students in every educational environment that the teachers are under-appreciated is just plain vile.

Madorsky notes the "generous" nature of the states' pension systems, speaks about the weakened state, in its negotiations with the teachers lobby, and essentially states how unfair it is the private sector employees aren't as fortunate with their 401ks or IRAs. Is Mr. Madorsky jealous for not taking a teaching job or more likely taking a ill-conceived approach for supporting his merit pay references? Yes, school funding is supported in part by property taxes. If referendums pass. But in many communities, they don't pass. Aging and less well-funded communities do not pass school funding. Ever. But the children still have to go to school. So things like gym, band, and art classes are cut. Low-funded districts also fire teachers, administrators, and whole school districts eventually close down.

Finally, Mr. Madorsky's point about how school districts are deprived of valuable school equipment because of teachers salaries are too high or not paid on a merit basis, or because they have a functioning retirement plan is so agenda-driven, so simplistic that it's painful. The whole basis of Mr. Madorsky's commentary seems to be that people working with our most valuable asset should be paid less, have a less secure retirement for demonstrating superior dependability, and they and their administrators do not deserve the respect of their students, students parents, taxpayers or any inhabitant of the state of Illinois. Sadly, the teachers are the easiest target in the educational merry-go-round, and politically, the safest.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Chasing a mirage

Just like our traffic, the controversy over the proposed extension of Route 53 never goes away.

And that's the problem, rather than take positive steps to improve the intersections, eliminate the bottlenecks, widen where necessary, the proponents of Route 53 suggest that we just sit in this mess another 10-20 years while we wait for someone to bestow billions of dollars on us.

The cost comparisons (regardless of whose numbers you use) of Route 53 to local road improvements are invalid—the local road improvements have to be done anyway, in ADDITION to the billions needed for the Route 53 extension itself.

After more than 40 years chasing a project that has become a mirage, I'm suggesting that we put the endless discussions aside and work on meaningful improvements throughout the county; improvements that can be made now, in our lifetimes.

Let's not let advocates of the Route 53 extension divert any more hard-won federal or state highway dollars away from the very real need to improve the local roads we use everyday.

Not a night club

Round Lake School District in partners with E.A.R.L. (Education Association of Round Lake), or teachers union is openly sponsoring an event that promotes the serving of alcoholic drinks as in "open bar," which is not the first time.

It is the opinion of this reader, taxpayer, that the School District 116 board and its partner is not measuring up to "character counts" as so called leaders in our community. You should be examples to our children and young adults.

Sponsoring events that promote serving and drinking of alcoholic beverages free of charge as in "open bar" or even if charged is hypocritical to that which is lectured in the DARE program in our schools.

There is no way you can assure me, that no one will get into a car after drinking alcohol and drive, that is not over the legal limit of the law .03. The district should not be promoting an event that serves alcoholic drinks. School business is educating our children, not night club owners.

Republicans plan for gala April dinner

The Lake County Republican Federation is looking to make a big splash at its annual dinner on April 25, at the Marriott Lincolnshire.

It has already landed U.S. Sen. Norm Coleman (R-Minn.) as its keynote speaker and is now finalizing event plans.

Coleman, 53, was mayor of St. Paul, Minn. From 1993-98 prior to his election to U.S. senator in November 2002.

"It's our big to-do of the year," said Kelley Folino, the LCRF's new exec director, who took the reins from outgoing director Ant Simonian on March 3.

Folino said landing Coleman came from major help through a connection with U.S. Rep. Phil Crane (R-Wauconda).

"We usually have about 600 attendees. We're hoping to up that this year."

Folino said also on tap are "thank you" ceremonies for former Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood and former District 29 State Senator Kathy Parker. She said a tribute is planned for Tim Osmond, who was District 62's state representative before his death in January.

The reception will start at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. Cost is $100-per-person. Call Folino at the LCRF offices at 847-680-6680 for more details.

A breakdown of scheduled contributions to local agencies: Mundelein High School will receive $1.2 million for school improvements. Fremont Elementary District 79 will receive $1.6 million for school improvements. Lake Zurich Unit District 95 will receive $1.8 million for school improvements. Fremont Public Library will receive $50,000 for library improvements. Elia Area Public Library will receive $15,000 for library improvements.

Controlled burns help breathe new life into forest preserves

As part of a comprehensive district-wide land management program, Lake County Forest Preserve staff will be conducting controlled burns to restore savannas, prairies and wetlands throughout Lake County this spring.

Weather permitting, controlled burns will begin in March and continue through May. Burns are prescribed to control invasive species, reduce thatch, recycle nutrients in the soil, and reduce the risk of wildfires. Last year's controlled burn program helped safely bring the benefits of fire to nearly 500 acres in Forest Preserves throughout Lake County.

Controlled burns decrease invasive weedy plants and encourage native plants to reproduce. They mimic the natural fires that occurred before Lake County was settled. The fires remove dead leaves, stems and twigs from the ground, exposing soil and seeds to the sun's rays early in the growing season. Wildlife populations have adapted to survive the burns. Most animals are safe underground or high up in trees; others move out to the way to avoid fires.

"Due to the improved habitat we have actually seen a marked increase in wildlife populations after controlled burns, which indicates the program is successful," said Jim Anderson, Natural Resource Manager for the Lake County Forest Preserves. Controlled burns are the most cost efficient tool available to land managers. Forest Preserve staff and volunteers complete intensive training before conducting controlled burns to ensure that proper safety measures are taken to protect people, facilities, plants and animals in the Preserves and surrounding properties.

Forest Preserves under consideration for spring controlled burns include new sites like Ethel's Woods and Singing Hill, and other high quality or habitat restoration areas like Middlefork Savanna, Wadsworth Savanna, Cuba Marsh, Elm Road Forest, Rollins Savanna, Ryerson Woods, Grant Woods, Lyons Woods and others.

Look in the Preserves section of the Forest Preserves web site at www.LCFPD.org for daily controlled burn announcements. Here you can find which Preserve is scheduled to receive a controlled burn, and you can learn more about the Forest Preserves entire land management program.

Local fire and police departments are notified before and after each controlled burn. Forest Preserve staff closely monitor each burn with appropriate safety equipment and, if necessary, stay overnight at the site until the fire is completely out. Wind and other weather conditions are monitored daily to help determine which Preserves are selected for prescribed burns.

For a FREE set of brochures on the Forest Preserve controlled burn program and other natural resource management efforts, call the Lake County Forest Preserve General Offices at 847-367-6640, or visit our web site at www.LCFPD.org.

Columbia College has new web site

Columbia College of Missouri in Crystal Lake has placed all of its most information on the Internet. And the address for Columbia is easy to remember: www.finishmydegree.com.

New students will be able to compare college costs, get degree information, and apply for enrollment. All forms for academics and financial assistance are on the site. In addition, there is a wealth of information and links for prospective students to ponder.

Current students can track the most recent schedules; obtain books on line, gain access to the Columbia College home campus web site, as well as gain access to all forms for registrations. Those near graduation will want to take advantage of the resume bank now being created for graduates of Columbia. A link is also provided to the on-line course gateway, where students may link from here directly to their on-line courses.

Alumni will want to return to keep up with activities specially created for the alumni. In addition to a major summer event being planned, Columbia asks its 1,000+ area graduates to check the site and respond with their e-mail addresses so that the college will be able to maintain better contact with its graduates.

Some of the good stuff in red win may be available in a capsule

"Open conversation and a bottle of red wine," croons Toby Keith in his newest country single, "Rock You Baby." No doubt, indulging in a fine Merlot or Cabernet Sauvignon enhances any romantic interlude. It relaxes us, it feels good, and it appeals to our taste buds in that it boosts the flavor of any good meal. Now we are finding out just how very good it can be, carrying more health benefits than any other alcoholic beverage in lowering the risk of heart disease.

Last week I talked about the red in grapes, also available in a glass of grape juice providing some very potent flavonoids, also found in fruits, vegetables, tea, nuts, seeds and even in the bark of some trees, that appear to have remarkable healing and disease preventive benefits. Findings in the studies involving red wine concluded that drinking moderate amounts—two, no more than three, glasses a day reduces platelet activity and helps prevent clot formation in the blood vessels. It was also found that red wine acts as an antioxidant in the blood reversing the damage to body tissue and cells by free radicals.

Finally, it also reduces LDL-bad cholesterol oxidation and helps dilate the arteries and keep them flexible.

Amazingly enough, in 1995, when grape juice, containing similar flavonoids was tested, it was discovered that purple juice also keeps our hearts healthy. The only problem, as I have mentioned, is that the juice is high in sugar and calorie content. As for wine, in addition to the sugar being possibly detrimental, the consumption of any alcoholic beverage may be ill advised for many people.

The answer to this dilemma may now be found in a flavonoid-based dietary supplement that was developed with the help of University of Wisconsin Medical School professor and researcher, Dr. John Foltz. Over three decades ago, Dr. Foltz performed laboratory studies on the effects of aspirin's platelet-inhibiting ability in helping to abolish the factors leading to heart disease.

More recently, Dr. Foltz' new research that aided in the development of the grape seed extract product, Proxex CV, distributed by Melaleuca, has gotten some very impressive response both by the scientific community and the press. In addition to grape seeds and skins, its label says it contains Ginkgo Biloba, Bilberries and a flavonoid called Quercetin.

When I first read about Proxex CV, I was already familiar with and taking related grape derivative supplements to benefit from their antioxidant and anti-aging effects. In addition to the cardiovascular benefits, these included relief from my allergies, bronchial asthma and migraine headaches.

Now, what about this new product that especially targets the heart?

Is it better than taking aspirin? I asked Dr. Foltz, "Should we stop taking aspirins, especially in light of what I've been reading about concerning its shortcomings?" Some reports state that when the body's production of adrenaline is increased, treatment with aspirin doesn't provide complete protection against platelet clot formation.

Reference is made to individuals who experience high levels of emotional stress or anxiety, or who are under physical stress due to illness, individuals who smoke, and those who are involved in rigorous exercise. There is also the issue of gastro-intestinal irritation and bleeding from aspirin for some individuals.

Are aspirins no longer considered a good remedy to fight heart disease?

What Foltz had to say really surprised me. I had expected him to come out against aspirins, and to instead recommend the new grape seed extract product that he helped develop. Instead, he told me that those people who don't respond well to aspirin are primarily diabetics and smokers. The incidence of stomach and intestinal irritation from taking an aspirin a day is actually low, and for the most part, the benefits of taking aspirin outweigh the negative. One can certainly take the grape seed extract derivative in conjunction with taking a baby aspirin every day, but primarily, it's important to always check first with your personal physician.

I have spoken to several doctors who have patients who are taking the Proxex CV or other related grape seed extract supplements. Dr. Stuart Sanders, a maxillofacial surgeon in Oakbrook Terrace, supports its use as an antioxidant, natural anti-inflammatory and antihistamine. "If I have a patient who has TMJ arthritis, I would recommend them taking grape seed extract along with Glucosamine."

Chester, New York, internist, Dr. Jonathan Herbst says that heart disease today is a far worse threat than cancer. With prevention needing to start in childhood, he recommends grape seed extract because it provides many of the benefits of drinking red wine without ingesting alcohol. While the incidence of heart attacks is lower in France, the general mortality rate is the same as that of the United States. This may be attributed to excessive alcohol consumption in France.

Dr. Richard Abrahamson, a Cincinnati, Ohio, ophthalmologist recommends grape seed extract products to patients "who are interested in alternative approaches to wellness." He stressed that there are no negative side effects known and that the positive side effects of this supplement are countless.

He said laughingly that he warns his patients of such things as increased energy, getting rid of allergies and headaches with increased metabolism and libido.

I need to tell the reader that I have been taking grape seed extract for almost five years and can attest to all the above. My bad cholesterol has gone down quite a bit, my bronchial asthma has improved. I no longer have that constant hacking cough, headaches are gone, my skin looks better, and I have a lot more energy—I'm not sure about the libido. I can only say, yes, I think everyone could benefit from taking the supplement. Some other companies that manufacture grape seed extract are Country Life, Now and Enzymatic Therapy.

Parents don't want reality shows to be their daughter's reality

Hi Dr. Singer,
We have a teenage daughter. She is 13. We have told her on many occasions that we don't want her watching those reality shows and on several occasions she has watched them at a friend's house. We wouldn't know except we hear her talking to her friends loudly about the people in the shows. She and her friends love those shows and my husband and I think they are a very bad example of relationships for her to see. We are pretty much agreed that if she defies our rules again, we will use appropriate consequences, but we wanted to know what you think about the reality shows and whether you think they are harmful to a teenager? F.E.B.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi F.E.B.,

I am not a fan of reality shows and to show you how far away from those shows our family is I will say that we are a Nick family. There are usually only 2 networks our family watches. TV Land and Nick at Night. In fact, if those were the only two networks on at all, we would be ecstatic! The nice thing about a free society is that we have the choice to turn the channel or turn something off. You do too, but your situation has one more wrinkle, and that is your daughter's unwillingness to follow your rules. The hard part is that she is a teenager and teenagers will be teenagers. That said, it doesn't mean you have to accept the behavior and hopefully you will follow up with appropriate consequences as you said you would.

Whether or not reality shows are harmful cannot really be answered objectively. In other words, I am not aware of any research suggesting it would be harmful or dangerous. It is probably much too new for there to be any studies yet. Also, most people have cable these days and what is accessible by cable is much worse than the reality shows.

Subjectively, and of course, only my opinion, I think they are very negative. The messages and information they give to audiences that are way too young to be watching them is not setting good examples about relationships between people and decisions such as marriage and intimacy between adults. Once again, though, as I have said many times before, I do not advocate censorship because it is not the earmark of a free society, which I would prefer us to stay. I believe in parental involvement, just like what you are doing. You are involved enough to know that she has been going behind your back to watch something you don't want her to. You are following up with appropriate consequences. These are things a good parent does. There is a certain point, however, when a teenager reaches a certain age (17, 18 etc.) that you have to hope you did the right things raising them and trust them to make good decisions for themselves. You cannot be with them every minute of every day and they will

The mind-body benefits of physical fitness

Stress from traffic, cell phones and balancing work/life is so pervasive today that it has become a driving force behind rising healthcare costs.

In a six-year study of more than 46,000 workers, depression and unmanaged stress emerged as the costliest risk factors in terms of medical expenditures. And, according to the American Institute of Stress, 75 to 90 percent of all doctor visits are stress-related.

When someone is under stress, adrenaline pours into the blood stream as part of our "fight or flight" response and muscles throughout the body tense in anticipation of a challenge. Immediate effects can range from a short temper to difficulty sleeping; long-term effects can be even more dangerous.

While impossible to eliminate stress from modern life, one can control the effect it has on the mind and body. People with increased levels of anxiety and nervous tension need to develop effective ways of coping with stress.

"Regular physical activity can help counter the potentially damaging effects of stress on the body and may help prevent stress-related illnesses," says John McCarthy, executive director of the International Health Racquet & Sportsclub Association (IHRSA).

"These activities provide a natural way to release tension in the body and will often lead to an automatic state of relaxation that naturally follows a good workout."

The link between mind and body was accepted in ancient India, the birthplace of yoga, thousands of years ago. It has taken a while for Western fitness experts to embrace the idea, however, the concept of holistic health and fitness is rapidly gaining popularity and acceptance. In a survey of health clubs belonging to IHRSA, twenty-three percent offer classes specifically geared to wellness and stress reduction.

In health clubs across the country, the trend is moving away from classes focusing simply on muscle and cardiovascular training to ones that include overall wellness and whole-body maintenance. Over the past few years, more and more people have discovered the benefits of workouts that stimulate the emotions as well as the muscles.

Classes such as yoga, Pilates and martial arts fill up as quickly as health clubs put them on the schedule. According to IHRSA, participation in yoga classes at U.S. health clubs increased by 200 percent between 1998 and 2000.

WAUKEGAN SECTIONAL BASKETBALL

Bees' knockout punch prevails over Dogs' stiff jab

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

In one corner, is a Waukegan Bulldog team that has climbed back into the county's elite status where high school ball is concerned. In the other corner, is Zion-Benton, the reigning North Suburban champs and the top seed in the Waukegan sectional.

"It's funny," said Zion head coach, Don Kloth. "I see them (Waukegan) as a mirror image of us. There are so many similarities: they are fast, like to penetrate to the basket, and they are good at crashing the boards. (head coach) Brian Colbert has done an outstanding job in his first year there."

True, both teams are a similar. The difference is, this was new territory for the Dogs, who won a regional to made it back to the sectionals, at home, nonetheless, for the first time since 1998.

That previous 'big game' experience paid off for Zion. The Bees, a senior-dominated team led by All-State guard Andre White, held off a furious Bulldog rally to come away with a 71-66 victory before a raucous crowd. The win puts the Bees back in the sectional title game for the third time in the last five years.

They will face the winner of Lake Forest and Libertyville for all of the sectional marbles on March 14 at 7:30 p.m. On the line—a trip to the 'Sweet 16', or the super's at Loyola Tues., Mar. 18. Zion suffered one of its only two losses to Libertyville the eighth game of the season while last month, they held off a solid Scouts team 61-58.

As for the game against the Bulldogs, the expected torrid pace was set from the get-go. Quincy Rogers' lay-up with one tick left in the opening act gave the Bees the lead for good at 17-15. It was a quarter that featured six lead changes.

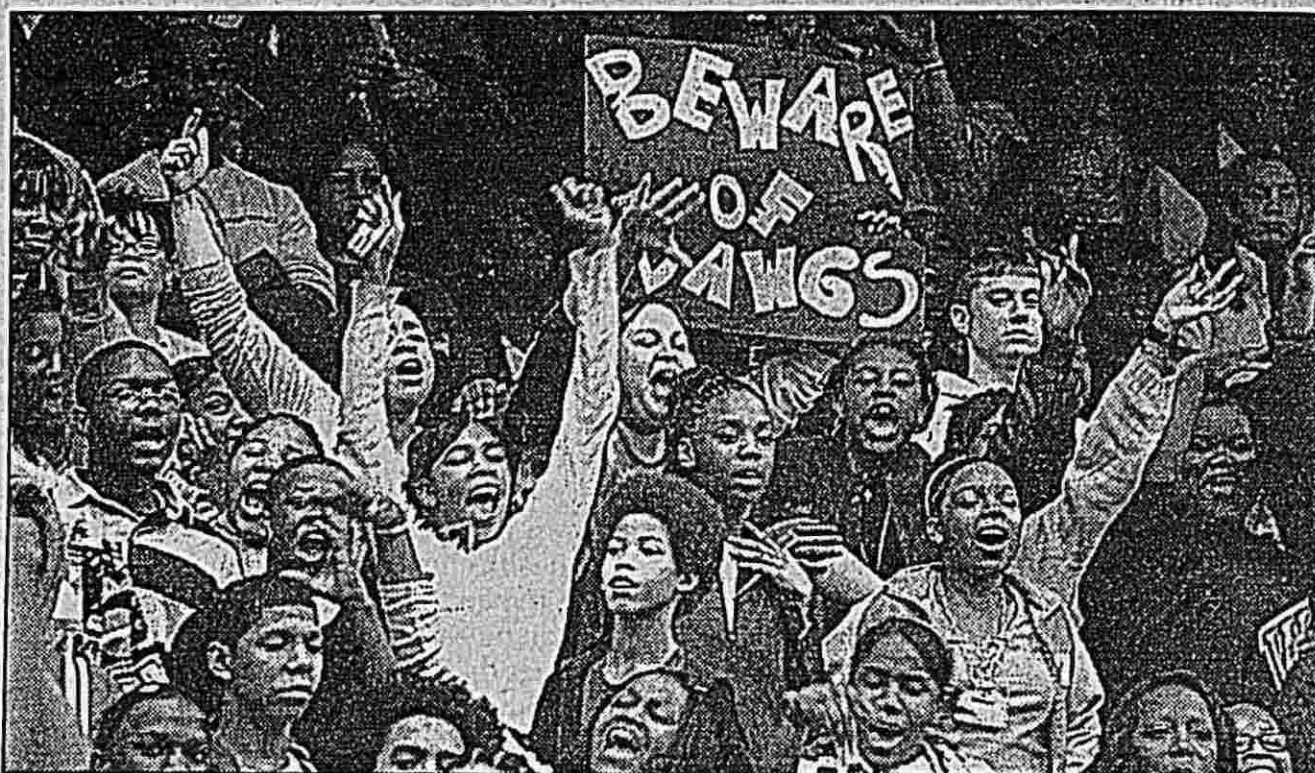

Rogers' bucket started an 11-0 run that seemingly put the game out of reach as Zion opened a 26-17 lead with 4:47 left in the second. This all without Andre White, who had no points at the time and was on the bench pretty much the entire second period with two fouls.

"We just hit a wall," said Colbert. "We dug ourselves too big of a hole to climb out of. But I'm really proud of our kids and how they battled. This was the first time they had experienced a game of this magnitude, at this level."

But wait. This is Waukegan and magical things happen in this building, especially come sectionals. After Zion jumped to a 38-25 lead at the break, the Dogs settled back down and started playing their style of basketball. Getting the ball into sharp-shooting sophomore guard Laron Frazier was a good start.

Frazier hit three treys in the period as Waukegan outscored Zion 29-15 to trail by only one (55-54) by quarter's end.

"That really lifted us," said Colbert. "The shots started falling, and along with that came confidence. We just couldn't get over the hump."

Andre White, who ultimately finished with nine points, was stymied by the Bulldog defense. So other Bees had to step up. Lott found the hot hand in the fourth, hitting for eight of his game-high 21 points in the final act. MacArthur White, Andre's cousin, hit for 16, mostly from in the paint. And Marcus Ruskin chipped in with 10 points and seven boards. Free-throws were also huge, as Zion connected on 18-of-21. Waukegan only made it to the foul line twice, missing both.

"Everyone stepped up and played their roles," said Andre White, who did have a say in the matter. His four free throws in the final 30 seconds helped keep it a two-possession game.

"Everything happens for a reason," said Andre White. "If I'm not scoring, there are other weapons on this team who can. I was just glad I could help us preserve the win at the end."

Waukegan finished the year 18-10. They were the fourth seed going into the post-season. Colbert had nothing but high praise for his team when the final horn sounded.

"Again, this was new territory for us, with a packed house and all," the coach said. "It was a great experience that we can build on heading into next season."

With four starters back, odds are that Waukegan will be in a familiar situation one year from now. Only they will have that experience, and knockout punch, to carry them to even a higher level.

Season slips away from CLC

By JOE PRUSKI
Lakeland Correspondent

The College of Lake County men's basketball team suffered a critical blow before play even began last week in a 78-53 loss to Moraine Valley in the opening round of the Region IV playoffs.

Leading scorer Mark Harvey stepped on a teammates' foot while doing lay-up drills minutes before the opening tip, landing him with a sprained ankle and out for the game.

"It was a huge blow right before the game like that," said CLC head coach Shawn Chism. "The team saw Mark go down and they just lost it, they weren't able to deal with the fact that they lost their leader before a playoff game."

To add insult and more injury to Harvey's misfortunes, the team's second leading scorer, Robert Bankhead, was cut below the eye in the first half and was taken to the hospital where he received 10 stitches.

The loss dropped CLC's season record to 11-19 (4-8 in conference), while showing a definite improvement over last year. Last year's club finished 4-26 in Chism's first year as head coach.

"The season went okay, we lost six games by just one point," said Chism. "Most of the time we just got out-rebounded—our post guys weren't tough enough to get the rebounds that we needed."

According to Chism, this year's squad was tough to figure out, due to their up-and-down play.

"I think a lot of the problems we had were mental. We would be down 15 at half-time and then come back and win by 10, or we would be getting blown out and all of a sudden turn it up a notch and make a run. It didn't make any sense."

After having no returning players this season from the last, CLC will return four players next year, including Harvey.

Off the hardwood, Chism continues to recruit area players, including Libertyville's Austin Yarc, whose brother Andy played for CLC last year.

"Our goal is to find kids that know what to do with the ball, and that want the ball at key times. We want to find kid's that will help improve our team chemistry," said Chism.

Three CLC players leaving this year are weighing options to continue playing basketball at the next level. According to Chism, Bankhead has received numerous offers, including a few from small Div.-I schools. Tim Addison and Bernard Middleton have also received offers from Div.-II and III schools.

Lady Lancers ousted

The College of Lake County women's basketball team bowed out of the playoffs last week after a loss to McHenry in the regional quarterfinals ended their season.

After an opening round victory over Waubensee, McHenry defeated CLC 63-43 at Moraine Valley.

"If one thing was real critical, it was the rebounding by McHenry—they out-rebounded us 44-29," said CLC head coach Bill Braman. "We also missed some shots we probably shouldn't have missed."

Jenni Malueg led CLC with 16 points, while Erica Brown finished with 12 points and eight boards.

"Considering the fact we seemed to be plagued by injuries and illness all year, we recovered well and had a successful season," said Braman. "This is probably the best group I've ever had."

The team finished the season at .500 with a 16-16 record. According to Braman, record-wise this was the best team since he's been there.

For the season, Malueg led the team in scoring, averaging 15.1 points per game. She also pulled down 6.3 rebounds per contest. Brown averaged 12.5 points and 7.6 rebounds per game. Amber Henley and Gina Spears both averaged over 10 points per game, while Henley dished out 3.3 assists per game. Becky Holem averaged 9.9 points and led the team with 11.5 rebounds per game. Amy Mueller led the team in assists with just under four.

Banquet Hall in RLH

Since 1966, Richard Lumpkins and his wife Eileen have been serving the best chicken and ribs in the area at their restaurant Richards Chicken and Ribs, located at 900 W. Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Heights. The basis of their success in the restaurant business has been their delicious southern fried chicken and hickory smoked barbecued ribs.

Richards is open daily for breakfast from 6 a.m. to noon and Sunday from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. There is an open menu for lunch and dinner from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and until 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

The Grand Buffet, which is a hot buffet with a salad bar, features lunch and dinner weekdays from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. The sports bar is open until 2 a.m. every day.

Richard and Eileen Lumpkins, married for 45 years with four children and six grandchildren, began a new venture just a couple years ago. While their son Tim works at the restaurant and their son Terry is mayor of Round Lake Heights they decided to dig their roots deeper in the community and opened a Banquet Hall next to their restaurant. Located at 916 W. Rollins Rd., this beautiful facility accommodates all types of parties and gatherings.

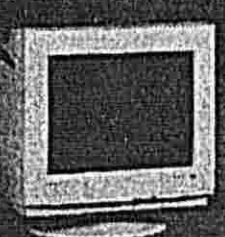

Richard's and Royal Banquet Rooms provide superb food, service and pricing. Call 847-740-6900 or 847-546-6900 for more information.

Immigration center open for business

Excitement about the future was in the air at the open house ceremony for the new Immigration Center at the Round Lake Area Public Library.

Pamphlets such as "Know your Rights" and books entitled "How to get a Green Card" were available for the visitors to peruse.

Library Director Paul Deane introduced Maria Elena Jones, who first came up with the idea for the center.

"We are here to celebrate the start of the Immigration Center," said Deane. It has been a long-time dream of Maria's to have a center in Round Lake. She helped us get a grant, and I want to thank her from the bottom of my heart."

Mrs. Jones, in turn, introduced Vonya Dupuy who will be the immigration case manager for the Center.

Also on hand doing some of the translation for the Hispanic people in attendance was Maria Guzman, who is the Hispanic outreach coordinator and public relations person for the Round Lake Library.

The Center will be open every other Thursday from 4 p.m.- 8 p.m.

Some of the services offered include: how to become a U.S. citizen; how to renew passports; how to obtain visas; and how to apply for permanent residency.—By Jeff Zachary

LONG-TERM CARE AT THE BALMORAL CARE CENTER

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A RESIDENT OF A PRESBYTERIAN HOMES COMMUNITY TO USE OUR REHABILITATIVE AND LONG-TERM CARE SERVICES.

"The staff at The Balmoral Care Center welcomed my dad with open arms and hearts. Instantly, he felt at home."

So often, the move to a long-term care center is a family decision. It may come after a serious hospitalization. Or, you realize your Mom or Dad really need round-the-clock care. We understand that you're all upset, confused, and a little scared.

Take heart.

At Presbyterian Homes, caring is more than just a word. It's alive and well in everything we do. It shows in the nursing assistant who knows your mother's favorite shade of lipstick to the chaplain who remembers your grandchild's name to the physician who listens to your soul as well as your heart. All of us put the residents first. Long before any "bottom line." In fact, it's part of our mission. Here, caring is more than just a word. It's a different language.

If someone you love needs long- or short-term care, call us. Ask us questions. Take a tour. Talk to us about your care options. We also encourage you to visit our web site at www.presbyterianhomes.org.

"Groundcovers": Wednesday, March 19th from 7 - 9 p.m. This program will look at groundcovers, how they can be used in the garden, how the different groundcovers grow and what type of maintenance they need. A number of groundcovers, both woody and herbaceous will be discussed.

"Garden Design and Landscape Basics": Monday, March 31st from 7 - 9 p.m. You've spent a great deal of time deciding which plants you want. How can you use those plants to make a beautiful garden? Learn the principles of design that will help you create a special landscape. This presentation will cover the basics of designing with flowers as well as proper placement of tree and shrubs for best effect.

These classes are offered at no charge. Advanced registration is required for all sessions due to space limitations in the class. To register for the classes, call the Extension office at 847-223-8627 or register on-line at www.urbanext.uiuc.edu/lake. ATTENTION PET OWNERS
We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.

*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Prepare for a Job Fair Before Attending
By Scott T. Fleischmann

As spring approaches, and with it comes the job fair season. The candidates who are most successful at these events have two things in common. Firstly, they plan and prepare to get the right interviews. Then they know what to expect when they arrive at the fair, and how to make the most of the available time.

The job fair is an opportunity to meet with recruiters immediately. This shortened process eliminates the first step, the application. Normally, one needs to send in a resume or fill out an application (or both) before getting an opportunity to meet those whom will make the hiring decision. At a job fair, candidates meet the recruiters before they have even seen the resume.

With that in mind, it is important to make a good first impression so that the recruiter will want to proceed with the interviewing and hiring processes. Here are some ideas on how to prepare for a job fair.

Know the companies that will be attending. This information can normally be found in the newspapers that sponsor the event. If the advertisement for the job fair does not list the attending companies, look at all of the employment ads. Those who are attending will normally identify themselves in those ads.

After identifying the companies, go to their web sites to find out more about them, and the skills that they need. Based on that information prioritize the companies that sound like good possibilities, those that need your skills and provide the environment, benefits and culture that meet your needs. Then make sure to stop at all of those companies during the fair.

Prepare resumes long before the event. Have them printed on good quality paper. Print enough of them so that you will have enough. Plan to bring 25% more resumes than the number of companies that will attend the fair, just in case some companies want more than one resume.

Getting to meet the recruiters before applying is a significant advantage only when the candidate makes a good first impression. The first step in making the desired impact is good grooming. In addition to normal hygiene, plan to get a haircut or trim several days before the job fair. Shoes should be clean and polished.

For men, make sure that fingernails are clean and neatly clipped. Facial hair needs to be conservatively trimmed. Women who use nail polish should do so conservatively. Jewelry should be simple, not gaudy or overused. I recommend the rule of seven for jewelry, never wear more than seven pieces of jewelry. An earring in each ear, a watch, a ring and a necklace would allow two other accents.

Plan to dress at the upper echelon for your profession. A good test is to dress at the level of the manager to whom you report. For those in a profession, that is probably a conservative suit (for both men and women). For those in the trades, that could be clean jeans or work pants with a casual shirt. If in doubt, it never hurts to dress slightly better. Plan to get dry cleaning or laundry and pressing done before the event to avoid a last minute rush.

That covers the preparation for the job fair. Next time we will explore what to expect at the fair and how to get the best results when you attend.

Pet OF THE WEEK

Hi, my name is Pepe. My folks just returned from a trip to Florida, and they brought me back with them. I did not come from a loving and kind home, and my former owners were glad to see me go! I am a good traveler, and very active. I am about a year and a half, and should give Mom and Dad many years of loving and loyalty to say "thank you" for rescuing me. My brother is "Prince" the Pekingese who was Pet of the Week in September. I hope he will learn to love me too.

NEWSPAPERS

March 14-20, 2003

Jo Haan Cotton, coordinator of Special Projects at College of Lake County-Lakeshore Campus, talks with author Phillip Dray about his new book "At the Hands of People Unknown, the Lynching of Black America." Muslim extremists flying planes into the World Trade Center, Palestinian suicide bombers blowing up Jews in Israel, American war drums beating in Iraq, Germans opposing the Americans at the United Nations, Pakistanis and Indians threatening war with each other, and North Koreans warning of nuclear disasters around the globe all speak volumes about the state of cultural relations in the world.

And the teaching of Black History in February in Lake County suggests that there is much work to do to improve relations between cultures here at home.

"We all need to understand what a very racist country the United States is," said former Chicago Bear defensive-back Curtis Gentry in a speech to Round Lake Area Park District employees during Black History Month. "I know that for a lot of people talking about race relations is a very uncomfortable thing, but how else will we get to know each other if we don't sit down and talk," he added.

After talking about how Blacks were brought over from Africa as prisoners on ships to be enslaved for 400 years, Gentry said that Americans have been programmed and conditioned to believe that Blacks are inferior.

He added that beginning with the slave masters who made it illegal to teach Blacks how to read and write, and continuing with the early days of television where Blacks were only portrayed as shoe-shine boys, maids, butlers and chauffeurs, people have been programmed to believe that Blacks are inferior.

Gentry was especially critical of television. "Tarzan," said Gentry with a sigh. "We were suppose to believe that the fastest, the strongest, the best swimmer and the toughest guy in deepest, darkest Africa was a white man. Come on you all," said Gentry with a smile.

And though the former, star-football player said, "The United States is still a great country. You never see anyone fighting to get out of the U.S., but you do see lots of people dying to get in." He made the point that there needs to be an attitude adjustment to improve race relations.

"If we sit around as human beings and listen to 'nigger' jokes and we don't complain and say that should not happen, then we are saying it is okay. And if we sit around and listen to Polish jokes and Jewish jokes and we don't complain, then we are saying it is okay."

Gentry also said some words like blackball, blackmail, blacklist, black eye, black sheep and black cat are really racist in meaning and are a way of putting down Blacks and programming and conditioning people to hate.

"Why can't the white cat be bad luck?" asked Gentry. "Or why can't it be the white sheep? Or a white eye? It is crazy the way we use race to show something is negative or wrong."

Gentry, 65, is also in favor of federal financial reparations for Blacks to make up for 400 years of free labor. "There are a lot of Black people still suffering mentally from what slavery did to us," said Gentry, who started fighting back tears as he told of his grandmother's fingers being cut off by a white man for spanking a white child she was caring for.

Gentry is a physical education teacher at the College of Lake County in Grayslake, where acclaimed historian and author Phillip Dray gave a presentation during Black History Month about his book called "At the Hands of Persons Unknown: The Lynching of Black America."

"Lynching was a major preoccupation in America up until about the Second World War," Dray told the audience in the CLC auditorium.

The author's presentation, which included past horrifying details of Blacks being hanged by unruly white mobs, ended with Dray warning that treating any race as criminal is not only unjust but will have lasting and devastating consequences for society.

His talk inspired a lively give-and-take conversation with the audience.

DIVERSITY

school system, stood up and told Dray that when the government holds talks of financial reparations for the descendants of slaves, the lynchings cannot be ignored because they are part of the horror and terror that came out of slavery.

After the presentation, Bobo commented on race relations.

"The work place is fine, but in the community we are still divided. We have a long way to go," said Bobo.

However, there is hope with cultural relations in Lake County, especially in the Greater Round Lake area.

Round Lake Area Park District President Jim Shook and his wife Carol, a Beach Elementary School teacher, who are both white, are raising their two black grandsons, Eric Watts, 14 and his brother Devan, 15.

"We haven't seen any real problems that I am aware of," said Mr. Shook, though his wife said that it has really heightened her sensitivity.

"I can tell you right away who is prejudiced and who is not," said Mrs. Shook.

For his part, Eric, said it was fun being in a bi-cultural family, but his brother said he has seen some prejudice at the Round Lake High School, though it has mainly been directed at people from India and native Americans.

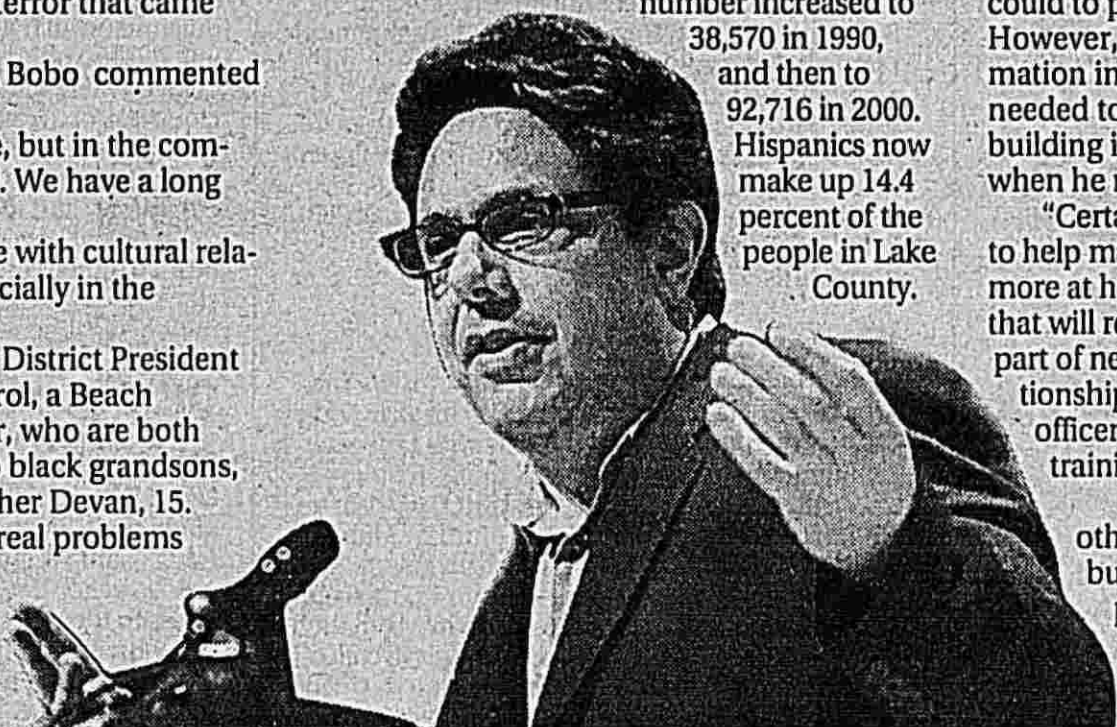

"I think that people who do that kind of stuff should look into the culture of other people and try to understand it more," said the older Watts. "People should think about what they say before they speak," he added.

It is interesting to note that the population of Blacks in Lake County has increased from 19,881 in 1970, to 34,771 in 1990, to 44,741 in 2000, according to the 2000 census figures. Blacks now make up 6.9 percent of the population of 644,356.

However, the Hispanic population has grown considerably more in the same time period.

In 1970, there were only approximately 11,000 Hispanics living in Lake County. That number increased to 38,570 in 1990, and then to 92,716 in 2000. Hispanics now make up 14.4 percent of the people in Lake County.

Fortunately, the Mano-A-Mano Family Resource Center in Round Lake Park is in operation to help teach Hispanics how to speak English, learn computer skills, find employment and receive information and referrals to other social service agencies.

The center has helped over 2,000 people in its short two-year existence according to executive director, Maru Tomusiak.

Mano-A-Mano was started by Round Lake

Park Mayor Ila Bauer and Round Lake Park-Hainesville Police Chief Bruce Johnson who saw a growing need to help the community. "Our philosophy is equal opportunity and justice for all," said Chief Johnson.

Mayor Ila Bauer commented on the state of cultural relations. "We do have a very large Hispanic population in Round Lake Park, and I believe that our African-American population is increasing quite a bit, too. As for the village, we probably do not do as much as we could to promote positive race relations. However, we do provide new resident information in Spanish and find a translator when needed to deal with our residents. Even our building inspector has contacts that he uses when he needs an interpreter.

"Certainly, Mano-A-Mano has done much to help make our minority population to feel more at home in Round Lake Park. Anything that will reduce the feeling of isolation on the part of newcomers will make for better relationships all the way around. Our police officers have all had diversity sensitivity training.

"Understanding and respect for other cultures doesn't cost any money, but it does cost some effort on all our part. We all need to recall that none of our families are native to this country other than the American Indians and to remember that someone helped our ancestors become a part of the community.

"Most of all, each of us has to remember that it takes some time and opportunity for non-English speaking immigrants to learn the language.

Perhaps, Latino Coalition of Lake County President Rosa Reyes-Prosen summed up the truth about race relations in Lake County the best. "It doesn't matter what color your skin is, we all have to work together to improve the community."

Or maybe Gentry said it a little better, "We need to love and not hate."

Grand Re-Opening for the 'Grand Dame of Antioch'

The ribbon will be cut and a new era begins

After many years of making P.M. & L. members will be holding a Grand Re-Opening of the theatre building located at 877 N. Main St. in Antioch. Sunday, March 23 at 2:30 p.m. the ribbon will be cut and a new era will begin for Antioch theatre goers.

The group has been in existence for over 40 years, has attracted both actors and audience from all over northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin and has played in various sites. The current building (an old movie theatre) was rented to the group back in the early 60's and 1982 the group decided that perhaps it was time to buy the building. Everyone took a deep breath and hoped for the best. The building was maintained as well as possible, always with frugality in mind. And then a couple of years ago Dolly Spiering passed away and left a rather large estate that was split among the Senior Center, the Antioch Rescue Squad and P.M. & L. Theatre.

After much discussion and trepidation the group finally decided it was time to take the money and really do something with the theatre. In July of 2002 the demolition and reconstruction were under way. At times it seemed as if it was just never going to happen. Then, all of a sudden it seemed that things were coming together and now like a phoenix rising from its own ashes one of the oldest and best-loved community theatres in far northern Illinois will once again be the Grand Dame of Antioch!

Kicking off the newly remodeled facility will be "Guys and Dolls" directed by one of the founding members, Ken Smouse. The show opens March 28 and runs for three weekends. However, prior to the opening of this production, P.M. & L. invites everyone interested in touring the new, improved P.M. & L. to stop by on Sunday afternoon, March 23 between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. for the Grand Re-Opening.

For further information on the event, call 847-395-7489.

Our state of mind

"Spider", starring Ralph Fiennes

Spider

Rating

R for sexuality, brief violence and language

Director

David Cronenberg

Starring

Ralph Fiennes
Miranda Richardson
Lynn Redgrave
Gabriel Byrne

Dennis Cleg (Ralph Fiennes) was nicknamed Spider by his mother because of his tendency to string objects together. The tone of the film is immediately established when we see Dennis wearing clothing layered like a homeless person, his mannerisms and eyes clearly indicating he's something other than mentally stable.

Just released from a mental institution, he steps off a commuter train in London and walks to a half way house, run by Mrs. Wilkinson (Lynn Redgrave).

This journey back to the familiar neighborhood in which he grew up releases a flood of confusing memories for Dennis; which he tries to decipher in a notebook where he scratches seemingly random computations. Terrified by what he believes to be the truth about what happened to his mother (Miranda Richardson), we witness the total collapse of the web of self-deception and illusion Dennis has woven.

Young Spider is a "normal" person who, like most of us, in a given set of circumstances can go over the edge. Good mental health appears to be a very fragile condition. It is playing at The Music Box Theatre.

Opening This Week

Agent Cody Banks: Frankie Muniz is Cody Banks of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). He's a kid whose mission is to run covert operations. The trailer is funny and the premise is interesting.

Amen: Inspired by true events, an SS officer, a chemical specialist, unknowingly does his job by helping the death camps in WWII. He alerts the hierarchy of the Catholic church with mixed results. Playing at The Music Box Theatre.

The Hunted:

Mentor Tommy Lee Jones, a la Pacino in "The Recruit," chases a rogue soldier, his former protégé, who continues his war time assassin ways in a peacetime environment. The story is formulaic but directed by William Friedkin, who gave us "The Exorcist" and "The French Connection," so expect some surprises to make this anything but routine.

Who should and who will....

Who will take home a gold statuette at the Academy Awards ceremony next week in Hollywood? This coronation is often asked from what the critics or the ticket-buying moviegoers have picked as their favorites. Academy voters care about things such as "it's your turn" (maybe Martin Scorsese finally, for best director with "Gangs of New York"). Perhaps to send a message is the quest: "The Quiet American" implies no pre-emptive strike on Iraq w/o UN backing. Or to strike a mood, a win for "Chicago" speaks to having fun at the movies as compared to the downbeat tone of "The Hours."

For the key categories of Best Actor/Actress, lead and supporting, Best Director, and Best Picture, here's who we think should win, and who will win. Best Actor should be Daniel Day-Lewis in "Gangs of New York." Jack Nicholson for "About Schmidt" will win. Jack's performance is outstanding, the role is a lovable one and he's a Hollywood darling. Lewis' edgy, almost over the top performance as Bill the Butcher in "Gangs" comes from an aloof actor who does a film every four or five years, whenever he gets a role he can sink his chops into, so to speak. Jack carries his picture while Lewis makes an important contribution as part of an all-star ensemble cast.

Best Actress, Nicole Kidman in "The Hours," has paid her dues in "Moulin Rouge," "The Others," and put up with a divorce from Tom Cruise. She's highly respected and it's her time to shine. We think Diane Lane should win for "Unfaithful" because her sexy "everywoman" portrayal of a wife and mother who becomes an adulterer resonates strongly almost a year after the film was released.

Chris Cooper ("Adaptation") should win, and will, as Best Supporting Actor. He gives a great quirky performance in an arty, well-written film that also garnered nominations for Meryl Streep and Nicholas Cage. George thinks Julianne Moore's portrayal in "The Hours" captures the soul of her character and should win her Best Supporting Actress. But he feels the pizzazz that Catherine Zeta-Jones brings to "Chicago" will carry the day. Pam's choice for this slot is Meryl Streep. She should win, and will, for her lascivious and layered performance in "Adaptation."

Martin Scorsese's less than perfect picture "Gangs of New York" tells a powerful story of epic proportions about the building of America and the Civil War that is relevant 150 years later. It should garner the long awaited Best Director award for Scorsese.

"Chicago" will capture the prize as Best Picture, according to both George and Pam. Though he thinks "The Pianist" should be the choice and Pam's top slot goes to "The Hours." People love "Chicago"; it's a wonderful picture that is doing great at the Box Office. And the public welcomes the escapism provided by this musical, given the current climate of war. Michael Wilmington of the Chicago Tribune has this as his best picture of the year, and he believes it's a better holocaust movie than "Schindler's List."

This is a year when it's worth seeing not just the winners, but the nominees as well. The ballot for the free movie tickets runs one more week. Don't forget to vote early and often!

Looking at the mom in the mirror

Michael Jackson claims he's had only two nose jobs, and only to improve his vocal range. So I think I'm well within my rights launching this column with a headshot that captures "my essence". (If, however, there is not a photo of me sporting a garbage bag with two eyeholes, then I've been outnumbered by wiser souls.)

But I have good cause to shy away from cameras. When I chaperoned the school dance I thought my son was popping his flash at me to capture fond memories. "Way to go Mom!" (flash) "No Sireee...nobody can say my Mom's lost her groove on the dance floor!" (flash) "That's right folks...EVERYBODY gather 'round and WATCH!" (flash) Only when the photos were developed did I realize my son was just interested in capturing panoramic views of my backside...

So I hesitated to put myself in the hands of another family member, my husband, when it came to taking my photo for this column. No offense Dad; but to date you've only taken vacation shots of us mugging in front of various landmarks. I half expected to go "on location" so you could drape me over a billboard announcing, "Next Exit...Meatball Capital of the World!"

Perhaps this time, though, my significant other would make a serious effort to show Mom "in the best light." No surprise, he thought that just happened to be in our bathroom. (Nothing like 1970s foil wallpaper to set the mood.) Add to that my daughter's insistence that a wardrobe change was in order. On went enough makeup and jewelry to satisfy a nine-year-old's vision of worldly sophistication. Off went any pretense of appearing more dignified than a saloon girl in a Wild West mining town.

At this point I could only pretend I was Elizabeth Taylor doing a White Diamonds commercial, and turn on the shower in hopes of steaming the camera lens. Before I knew it, I was planted on the commode, with one son angling his President's Day poster project to reflect light off the vanity mirror...I half expected my good side to morph into Teddy Roosevelt, moustache and all. Thankfully, the photo shoot soon ended; the light faded...and someone needed to use the facilities.

So don't blame me if they actually use a shot of my face in this column and I look like I've spent too long sleeping in Michael Jackson's hyperbaric chamber. Now I actually feel more like one of his kids who never go out without a veil. You see, I still have that garbage bag...

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20

This is an ideal time for you to make important strides in your career. You will inspire the confidence of associates; however, it's important that you actually do know what you are doing.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Feeling adventurous, Taurus? Now's the time to follow your dream. Even if you like to stay close to home, you'll yearn for faraway places. Get on a plane and go.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Like it or not, you may have to rein in your impulses this week, Gemini, especially when it comes to shopping. Put yourself on a budget, and stick to it as best you can.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

It's time to take personal and professional relationships more seriously, Cancer. Swallow your pride and treat everyone as equals — even those who have treated you poorly in the past.

LEO - July 23/August 23

If you've been thinking about making changes in your diet or exercise regimen, now's your chance. No matter how strong you are, it still pays to treat your body with respect.

VIRGO - Aug. 24/Sept. 22

Believe it or not, the good times are about to get better this week. You're feeling confident and for once, you won't be afraid to take the kinds of risks that make things happen.

LIBRA - Sept. 23/Oct. 23

You've been moving so fast in recent weeks that you may not notice just how lucky you are. It's high time you slow down and count your blessings.

SCORPIO - Oct. 24/Nov. 22

Compared with the problems of some, your concerns seem pretty minor, Scorpio. Go ahead and put your worries behind you. A chance encounter leads to romantic sparks.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov. 23/Dec. 21

You've been feeling especially jubilant recently, and things will start to tone down soon; but there's no need for the fun to stop. Be sure though, to enjoy yourself and the good times responsibly.

CAPRICORN - Dec. 22/Jan. 20

Remember: good things happen to those who think they deserve them, and this week you deserve them more than most. You have good reason to feel good about yourself and the future.

AQUARIUS - Jan. 21/Feb. 18

You may find it a little hard to get back into the swing of things this week. Don't fret too much; it's better for you to make this a time of quiet contemplation.

PISCES - Feb. 19/March 20

No matter how blue you may feel now, you'll feel much better by the weekend if you don't just sit at home by yourself. Join in the festivities going on around you.
